Quentin Killers Caught In Wild Police Chase

Zip Gun Figures In Action

By JOHN F. KEARNEY and CAROL MARSH

Two armed murderers broke out of San Quentin Prison in a stolen truck yesterday and were captured 20 minutes later after a dramatic, tire-squealing, high-speed police chase through Ross Valley.

In four minutes, loaded with frantic action, the convicts:

Fired shots at pursuing police from a prison-made zip gun.

Swerved in and out of traffic at speeds over 75 miles an hour.

Totally wrecked the truck after colliding with a San Anselmo police patrol car and a station wagon occupied by a Ross resident and her daughter.

PULLED FROM CRASH

Convict Carl M. Wilwerding, 32, was pulled from the crash with serious injuries. Escape partner Donald C. Ward, 27, was thrown out by the impact and bruised. Both were taken into custody and returned to San Quentin.

It was a violent ending to a well-planned, daring escape which had begun quietly 20 minutes earlier — at 2:20 p.m.

Ward and Wilwerding, both serving life sentences for slayings, passed from the medium security block to the old dairy ranch in the minimum security area. They were under the supervision of civilian foreman Joseph L. Lewis, 43, and it was to have been a routine job.

ARRIVE AT RANCH

Everything seemed all right to Lewis when the three men arrived at the ranch in the plumber's truck. Then, suddenly the two convicted murders turned on him and overpowered him. They tied both his wrists with rope to a pipe and sprang back into the three-ton truck.

Their next major obstacle to freedom was the west gate.

There, the guard had opened the gate after inspecting a vehicle ahead of the truck. Before

AID FROM THE LAW — Bloodied escaper Carl Wilwerding is given first aid for a scalp wound by California Highway Patrolman John Campion, who was one of the first to give chase. Campion clamped handcuffs on his prisoner before getting out the bandages.

MADE IN PRISON?—Ross Police Chief John F. Harris holds the gun found in the truck used by the fleeing convicts. It was operated by a battery and fired home-made bullets made of brass.

BACK IN CUSTODY—Escaped killer, Donald Ward, his blue prison denims splattered with mud, sits back in a police patrol car after the 75-mile-an-hour chase. He was uninjured in the crash.

Reprieves Go To Roberts, Sanchez

Condemned murderer Daniel A. Roberts, scheduled to die Tuesday in San Quentin's gas chamber, was granted an indefinite stay of execution yesterday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

A second inmate, Armando Sanchez, 35—set for execution June 1—was granted a stay yesterday by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Robert's reprieve was granted by Judge Stanley A. Weigel in response to a petition from Roberts' attorney, Nancy A. Rossi of San Leandro.

Mrs. Rossi moved swiftly yesterday morning—resorting to the federal court as soon as it opened — after Gov. Ronald Reagan turned down Roberts' plea for executive clemency less than 24 hours before.

Mrs. Rossi charged in her petition that Roberts had been convicted of the 1965 robbery-strangling of his San Francisco landlady on perjured testimony by his common-law wife, Mae Blanche Coleman.

In granting the stay, to remain in effect till the court lifts it, Judge Weigel set a strict timetable for arguments. The state must submit by May 15 its written opposition to granting Roberts a writ of habeas corpus and a new trial. Mrs. Rossi then has eight days to answer the state's arguments.

The judge set a hearing for 9:45 a.m., May 24, limited to an appearance by the state. At that time, unless the matter has been disposed of, the court may order another hearing.

The essential problem the court must wrestle with is whether or not the testimony

Marincello Developers Get Setback

Marincello developers received a setback early today when a Marin Superior Court jury awarded $11,500 to a Sausalito couple suing to prevent use of a private road as access to the project.

Warren V. and Ida Lou Glass of Wolfback Ridge Road were awarded $5,500 general damages for slander of title and $6,000 punitive damages. They had sought $250,000 punitive damages from Frouge Corp. and Gulf Oil Co.

The jury also found that the 20-foot road was not dedicated for public use as the defendants contended. The finding will prevent Marincello from using the road unless they buy it or it is condemned by a public agency.

The jury returned its decision at midnight, Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. said. He will decide within two weeks whether to make permanent a temporary injunction against use of the road by Marincello, he said.

Lunar Orbiter Still On Way

PASADENA (AP) — A delicate camera package named Lunar Orbiter 4 pressed toward the moon today, preparing for a historic mapping assignment covering most of the lunar surface.

The craft passed the 150,000-mile point in its 254,519-mile journey at 1 a.m. Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena said they are considering a second midcourse maneuver.

Change of course signals yesterday morning from Pasadena ordered the shiny spacecraft's steering engine to burn for 53 seconds.

Marin Asked To Seek Some Other Values

Marin County should put aside "middle class blinders" and look at other possible standards and values, a mental health specialist said yesterday.

Growing numbers of "hippies" moving from San Francisco will change Marin's culture, and not necessarily for the worse, Dr. J. J. Downing said.

The county will also face increasing problems of high-density population, such as narcotics and crime, in coming years, Downing said.

Downing spoke to some 250 persons attending a mental health "teach-in" at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo. Downing is program chief for San Mateo mental health services.

The audience split into panel groups to draw conclusions in 16 areas relative to mental health. Among their findings:

Schools—There is no school in Marin intended primarily to meet the needs of children. More psychological training for teachers and more psychological help for students are needed.

Patients—A concerted effort is needed to get business to understand the needs of ex-mental patients returning to the community, and to understand minority group viewpoints.

Drugs—More honesty and objectivity on drugs are needed to close the widening gap between children and adults on the subject. Diminished sensationalism in the press is needed. Felony laws have proved ineff-

Reds Mount Raids In South As Planes Pound At Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces mounted a flurry of raids in South Vietnam in the wake of American air strikes yesterday at key targets on Hanoi's outskirts, including the previously immune Ha Dong army barracks.

U.S. Marines holding Hill 881 North, newly won in a bloody battle that cleared North Vietnamese regiments from high ground near the Laotian frontier, came under a 92-shell mortar barrage which killed one Marine and wounded six. The Marines countered with mortar and artillery fire.

Elsewhere, Red units attacked a provincial capital, a U.S. Army Special Forces camp and a village administration building. A Vietnamese spokesman said more than 100 civilians were killed or wounded.

U.S. Air Force pilots flying out of Thailand said they made a successful attack on the Ha Dong army barracks, four miles southwest of Hanoi, and wrecked the Yen Vien railroad yards.

Hanoi broadcast a declaration that eight planes were felled. It said several of the pilots were captured and three — James Lindbergh Hughes, 40, of Iowa;

Battling Driver Subdued

An unemployed bartender was jailed early today after driving through the center of San Anselmo at speeds over 80 miles per hour and battling police who tried to arrest him, San Anselmo police reported.

Adam N. Mikolon, 36, of 1310 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, remained this morning in county jail in lieu of $1,100 bail on a string of charges.

Police said Mikolon's car was first spotted at 1:15 a.m. by Patrolman David Oliva as it sped past a stop sign at San Anselmo Avenue while going east on Center Boulevard. Mikolon ignored five more stop signs, police said, as Oliva chased his car for a mile until it stopped at a roadblock of three police vehicles near police headquarters.

Mikolon got out of his car, but then jumped back in and roared down San Anselmo Avenue when the roadblock was moved, police said. Stopping his vehicle with a long skid at the intersection of Pine Street, police said, Mikolon emerged and ran up to Oliva and kicked the officer in the stomach, police said.

Despite a squirt in the eyes from a tear gas aerosol can wielded by Oliva, Mikolon continued to resist, police said, and had to be clubbed on the head.

Mikolon was treated at Marin General Hospital for a scalp cut, then booked on charges of battery on a policeman, resisting arrest, speeding and ignoring six stop signs.

Oliva was treated at the hospital for stomach bruises.

30 YEARS AGO THAT TRAGEDY STRUCK

This was the scene on May 6, 1937, at Lakehurst, N.J., with the flaming giant zeppelin Hindenburg crashing to earth afire. The ship was a mass of ruins after an explosion rent it in midair. The craft was a tomb for 36 of the 97 persons reported aboard. (UPI Telephoto)

UN-AMERICAN FILE GROWS IN CAPITOL

Delano Grape Strike Is Among Papers Locked In Report—Due Out In June

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A rough draft of the 1967 Senate Un-American Activities Committee report locked in the Capitol today includes the Delano grape strike among a growing list of notes and files.

But committee chairman Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, emphasized yesterday that he couldn't reveal the over-all content in this year's installment of the lengthy, often controversial reports.

"I haven't even taken an entire look," Burns said, adding that the report of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities probably will be finished "past the middle of June."

TYPED UP

"I have some stuff typed up on the Delano thing," he said.

The Delano strike began in the fall of 1965 as a dispute between Mexican-American farm workers and their San Joaquin Valley employers over union recognition. The strikers won union representation in some large firms but the strike continues, already one of the longest in the nation's history.

The farm workers brought their cause to the Capitol Easter 1966 after a dramatic, week-long march from Delano. Now the dispute includes a battle for worker representation between the Teamsters Union and the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, led by Cesar Chavez.

ROLE OF STUDENTS

The past two un-American activities reports dealt chiefly with the role of students and faculty on the troubled Berkeley campus of the University of California.

The 1965 report said that former U.C. President Clark Kerr's relaxed security policies allowed Communist sympathizers to play a leading role in 1964-65 demonstrations.

Kerr replied that the report was filled with "half truths" and "distortions." But in 1966 the committee issued an unprecedented suppliment to its biennial reports and blamed Kerr again for many of Berkeley's problems.

Kerr was fired by university regents early this year.

Other targets of the 1965 report included the far right — especially the John Birch Society.

One of the investigating committee's five members criticized the 200-page, 1965 report and wouldn't sign it. "The balance is just drivel of old Communist stuff," commented Sen. Stephen P. Teale, D-Railroad Flat.

Burns indicated that the 1967 report will get a close look from committee members before it's published.

"We're doing a rough typing

DRAFTS DONE

job on it now," he said. "Most all of the preliminary drafts are done."

For the past 26 years the chief compiler and researcher for the reports has been Richard E. Combs, a Visalia lawyer.

The current committee membership consists of two Democrats and three Republicans: Burns, Teale, Republican Minority Leader John F.McCarthy of San Rafael and Republican Sen. Richard J. Dolwig of Atherton and H. L. Richardson of Arcadia.

Richardson was appointed to the committee this year to replace former Sen. Aaron Quick, D-Calexico, who didn't seek reelection in 1966.

Burns — as Senate president pro tem — kept his committee operating this year although the Senate's other fact-finding committees were abolished at his request.

The Senate adopted new rules which refer all between-sessions studies to a General Research Committee, composedof all 40 senators. Subcommittees will be appointed from the membership for particular topics.

But the un-American activities committee operates technically as a subcommittee. And it will remain as part of the research committee under the new rules.

Nixon Visits Lima Again

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned last night to the city where he was stoned and spat at nine years ago in one of Latin America's worst receptions for a visiting U.S. dignitary.

Nixon

Peruvian Communists called for a new "hostile reception."

Security forces at the Lima Airport were heavy. They were not needed. Nixon gave a brief airport news conference, then drove to the home of U.S. Ambassador J. Wesley Jones without incident.

Nixon said he did not intend to visit San Marcos University where he was mobbed in 1958.

The then vice president was making a goodwill tour of eight nations.

Nixon said he was making his present five-nation, 11-day tour of Latin America to "appraise in the field American foreign policy in this hemisphere."

Lynda's Escort Charged

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Two Colombian newspapermen have brought suit against "unknown members" of Lynda Bird Johnson's escort, charging that they inflicted serious personal injuries upon them and destroyed private property.

Lynda

The suit was filed yesterday in a Barranquilla criminal court and the judge ordered a court doctor to examine Amado Blanco, a reporter, and Gustavo Vasquez, a photographer, of the Bogota newspaper El Tiempo to determine the extent of their injuries.

Blanco and Vasquez charged that the escort hit and kicked them as they attempted to cover the arrival of the President's daughter Wednesday at Barranquilla. She was on assignment for McCall's magazine and flew to Barranquilla en route to Cartagena for a story on the U.S. hospital ship Hope anchored there.

The newspapermen claimed that at one point one of Miss Johnson's escorts "pulled out a gun and aimed it at us."

Assemblymen Reject Plea On Meyers

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly Rules Committee has rejected a request from a grand jury to consider taking action to unseat Democratic Assemblyman Charles Meyers of San Francisco.

Committee chairman Joe Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, announced Friday that the San Francisco Grand Jury offered little additional evidence on allegations that Meyers, a veteran of 18 years in the Assembly, made improper use of his legislative allowance.

Gonsalves said the Rules Committee is "not a proper fact-finding body for the purpose of determining whether or not the alleged wrong-doings had, in fact, taken place."

Meyers declined to comment on the Rules Committee action, saying only the Gonsalves' statement "is self-explanatory."

Gonsalves had indicated earlier his committee probably would reject the grand jury's request since no indictment was made against the San Francisco legislator.

In a statement issued Friday, Gonsalves said, "If the allegations are true, I believe that we must all agree that the misconduct would have to be classified, at worst, as an exercise in poor judgment."

He said there is no evidence to indicate Meyers "was personally enriched from any of the actions of which he has been charged."

Motor vehicles in the United States consume more than 72 billion gallons of fuel each year, estimates World Book Encyclopedia.

Governor Signs Medi-Cal Measure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Reagan has signed a $44 million Medi-Cal emergency bill in Los Angeles shortly after it passed the Legislature.

Word of the signing came last night.

After the measure was approved by both houses, Reagan's administration canceled plans to phase out the state's Medi-Cal program.

The assistance program offers indigent Californians medical care as a supplement to federal medicare.

The measure's demise seemed almost certain yesterday until the State Senate and Assembly resolved their differences and moved to allow the program to continue.

Officials said the emergency legislation was necessary because costs of the program were unexpectedly high, with more money needed to keep it going through June.

A bill meant to allow the Medi-Cal payments simply to continue was approved by the Assembly, but it was amended in the Senate when concern arose over how much counties should contribute. The Senate changes would have required counties to pay 50 per cent of the costs over $44 million.

Assembly Democrats, however—supported by a handful of Republicans—refused to agree, contending the changes would place an undue burden on counties and their property taxpayers.

The compromise came out of a six-member Senate-Assembly committee that worked all week to pound out an agreement, which met only slight opposition in both houses Thursday.

The compromise limits state spending on the program to $44 million in fiscal 1967-68 unless the lawmakers approve additional money.

It also gives the state stronger control over spending in the program.

Pipe Manufacturers Agree To Damages

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Six major pipe manufacturers yesterday agreed to pay $21.27 million in antitrust damages in a unique settlement accepted by 350 plaintiffs in California, Oregon, Washington and Hawaii.

The plaintiffs included the federal government, the four states, and cities, counties and water and utility districts in the four states. The settlement was based on $195 million in concrete and steel pipe purchases between 1954 and 1963.

Federal District Judge Martin Pence of Honolulu presided over the settlement negotiations with the six firms.

They were U.S. Steel Corp., Kaiser Steel Corp., Smith-Scott, Inc., U.S. Industries, Inc., United Concrete Pipe Corp., and Martin-Marietta Corp.

The six firms pleaded no contest in 1964 to a criminal antitrust indictment charging conspiracy to rig bids and to allocate markets throughout the Western states on major water and power projects.

These six companies and American Pipe and Construction Co. were fined a total of $59,500.

American Pipe and Construction, involved in about $100 million in pipe sales, did not join in the negotiated settlement.

A flood of civil actions, seeking treble damages under federal antitrust laws, followed the Los Angeles criminal indictment fines.

In January 1967 the six companies advanced their first offer for a mass settlement of all the damage suits.

Priests Warned On Demonstration

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — The archbishop of Barcelona, in a pastoral letter yesterday, warned the priests of his diocese against joining in demonstrations.

Archbishop Marcelon Gonzalez Martin told the priests, "You must never participate in public demonstrations which, apart from being forbidden by law, deal with problems which are not of your competence."

A number of priests were detained in connection with May Day disturbances in this region. Police said one demonstration in a Barcelona suburb had been provoked by leaflets signed by 67 "young priests."

Brown Rips Reagan Over The Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Brown gave Gov. Reagan flunking grades in budget-balancing and government last night and said the "Creative Society" was just a masquerade for the radical right.

Brown, in his first public address in the capital since leaving office, underlined his words with finger-pointing emphasis before a packed Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner audience from the Sacramento County State Central Committee.

PERIOD OF CHANGE

The former Democratic governor said he had anticipated a period of change and new ways of doing things in Republican Reagan's first 100 days of office.

"But few expected the inept performances we've seen," Brown declared, adding that in his view the Reagan administration represents "the radical right that masquerades as the 'creative society'."

"This administration bears only the stamp 'reduced by 10 per cent' — and they haven't even done that," Brown asserted.

He added later, "We're going to do something about it in 1970," he said of the next gubernatorial election. As an afterthought the defeated ex-governor conceded, "That's a long time away."

U.C. BUDGET

Brown said Reagan thinks in terms of the University of California "as just a $175 million budget."

Brown said "that isn't so and neither is the Department of Mental Hygiene . . . just so much brick and mortar with an annual price tag of $190 million.

"In the view of the new administration, the paramount concern is dollars and cents. In their view, the major concern of government is business efficiency and ledgers that measure revenue and expenditures," he said.

New Director

Howard B. Blatt of 389 Miller Creek Road has been elected a director of the Marinwood Association, filling a long-standing vacancy, Jack G. Nixon, association president, said today.

Reagan's Plan Held Stagnation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh questions the value of Gov. Ronald Reagan's task forces of businessmen in state government.

Unruh told a Los Angeles audience yesterday that Reagan's task force approach is unilateral government and will bring stagnation in Sacramento.

The governor has said that teams of business executives, paid with private funds, will spend three or more months in various state departments looking for ways to increase efficiency and economy.

$25,000 Damage In Cooker Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A customer who tried to put out a deep-fry cooker fire in the S. H. Kress & Co. Mission Street store yesterday spread the flames instead and the blaze caused an estimated $25,000 damage.

The customer picked up a fire extinguisher and turned it on the blazing cooking oil. The force of the extinguisher's jet spread the flames which shot up a flu to the roof.

There were no injuries reported.

Armed Quentin Killers Captured After Chase

the officer had time to look up, inmate Ward, at the wheel of the truck, stamped on the accelerator and hurtled through the open gate. The time: 2:35 p.m.

SOUNDS ALARM

The guard sounded the alarm and messages were flashed to police forces in adjacent communities.

About two miles away, California Highway Patrolman John Campion, 26, was watching a gas station attendant put gasoline into his motorcycle at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and La Cuesta Drive, Greenbrae. Suddenly, a woman driver drew in and yelled at him: "That truck, two escaped prisoners from San Quentin are driving it." The time: 2:40 p.m.

Campion sent out an alarm and set off in hot pursuit. At one point, Campion heard a shot from the fleeing truck and something metallic glanced off his helmet.

POLICE ALERTED

Meanwhile, Ross and San Anselmo police were alerted and closing in. Ross Police Chief John F. Harris started south on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to intercept the convicts. At Laurel Avenue he saw them coming and, as he made a U-turn, the truck passed him heading toward San Anselmo. Harris joined in the chase with the highway patrol motorcycle roaring up behind.

The ride on the wild side intensified. The truck was driven mostly on the wrong side of the highway along roads packed with traffic and high school students returning home.

PULLS CAR OUT

As the fleeing killers neared San Anselmo, police Sgt. G. Albert Howenstein pulled his car out of Bolinas Avenue into Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in front of their speeding truck just inside San Anselmo's city limit.

Inmate Ward pulled the wheel right to avoid Howenstein's patrol car, but the truck glanced off it and hit a station wagon occupied by Mrs. Edward W. Bullard Jr. of Shady Lane, Ross, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 16, who was driving.

The impact knocked Howenstein's car into the left lane, where another car, traveling in the opposite direction, hit the front bumper, triggering another accident when Chief Harris braked his pursuing car. Highway Patrolman Campion slid his motorcycle on its side to avoid hitting Harris's police car and leapt bodily onto its trunk.

Campion jumped from the trunk, raced round to the wrecked truck and clamped handcuffs on Wilwerding. The time: 2:44 p.m.

Ward, thrown from the truck, was pounced on by police. Wilwerding was the more seriously hurt, suffering facial injuries, possible broken ribs and leg scrapes.

BADLY SHAKEN

Ward, who was badly shaken, was covered at gunpoint by Chief Harris. The chief, who said he had been fired at by the fleeing convicts, found the prison-made zip gun on the floor of the truck.

It was designed from a piece of round steel pipe, an inch and a half in diameter, and had a home-made silencer on the end of the barrel. A six-to-eight-inch clip was fitted into the base of the gun.

It was operated by an electric battery and fired home-made bullets made of brass, molded lead and electrical primer.

How the two convicts came to have the deadly and ingeniously-made gun no one at the prison would say. Correctional Counselor Joseph R. O'Brien, said, however, that Ward was employed in the steamfitting room at San Quentin and might have had an opportunity to make it.

A full-scale investigation was to be launched today, he said.

Both men, at the prison since 1961, were serving sentences for murder.

Ward killed Richard Vaccarezza in Oakland in 1961 by hitting him over the head with a gun and firing two shots into his prostrate body.

DONALD C. WARD

CARL M. WILWERDING

Wilwerding killed Leslie Bollinger, his partner in a prospecting venture, in October 1960 by shooting him in the face.

At the prison hospital today, Wilwerding was listed in serious condition. Ward was placed in a cell after medical examination.

Mrs. Bullard was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes. Her daughter was uninjured.

A far less spectacular escape made Monday by two other San Quentin inmates was pushed into the background by the latest bid for freedom. But today, police forces throughout the state were still looking for Donald Paul Alvarado, 34, and Walter Glenn Castro, 35, who walked away quietly from the minimum security ranch — and disappeared.

Theft Suspects Caught On Tip

Two Forest Knolls girls, aged 6 and 8, alerted sheriff's officers yesterday and gave the lead to an arrest of two burglary suspects.

Booked into Marin County Jail were David W. Decker, 21, of 224 Marin Street, San Rafael, and Dennis M. Shuteroff, 20, of 204 Resak, Forest Knolls.

Deputies said the girls noticed the two men close by a house. Deputies said the men, believing the girls had seen them commit a burglary, chased them, but the girls got away and telephoned the sheriff's office.

Arriving at Forest Knolls, deputies traced the license number taken by one of the girls and the men were arrested near an abandoned house. Officers said they found the proceeds of several burglaries in the car.

Seadrift Election

Seadrift Property Owners Association members will elect four directors at their annual membership meeting tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the home of board president Philip A. Crane Jr., 306 Seadrift Road. Proposed for the two-year terms by the nominating committee are Edward Z. Lewis, Charles F. Lowrey, Henry W. Wagner, and Edward H. Mackay, incumbent.

Meeting Delayed

The Monday meeting of Sausalito School District trustees has been postponed to May 15 at 8 p.m. in the district office, Wateree and Nevada streets, at the request of trustee David E. Freedheim, who said he could not attend Monday.

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

4:35 p.m., San Rafael — Fire in sacristy of St. Sylvester's Catholic Church, 1115 San Pedro Road, believed started by juvenile, did estimated $2,500 damage. Police investigation continuing.

4:55 p.m., San Rafael — Accidental alarm at Independent-Journal pressroom, 1040 B street.

9:42 p.m., Santa Venetia — Fire at Turrini's Auto Salvage, 80 Smith Brothers Ranch Road, in junked auto, caused by spark from cutting torch. No damage.

Fire Causes $2,500 Damage At Church

A fire at St. Sylvester's Catholic Church at 1115 San Pedro Road, San Rafael, believed started by one or more boys attending pre-confirmation practice, caused $2,500 damage yesterday afternoon.

Fire Chief Vance Trivett said the fire was set in a storage area for religious vestments and utensils near the sacristy. Several boys were in that part of the church, he said.

The fire, reported at 4:35 p.m., was "90 per cent controlled" by the pastor, Rev. John P. Tierney, with a fire hose before they arrived, firemen said.

San Rafael police questioned boys believed involved, but officials were unavailable for comment this morning.

Trivett said it was unlikely the fire was connected with a series of recent fires in church buildings in the north San Rafael area.

Damage to the building was estimated at $1,500 and damage to contents at $1,000.

under question was perjured and whether or not, if it was, a miscarriage of justice resulted.

When the judge's decision was announced in the afternoon, Mrs. Rossi went to San Quentin, where she conferred with Roberts after leaving word at the warden's office that she would accept no phone calls, would not discuss the case with the press and wished to leave the prison as unobtrusively as possibly.

With Roberts in the visiting room when he learned of his reprieve was his brother, Charles, of San Bernardino.

The assurance of at least more weeks of life and the new ration of hope were gratefully received by Roberts. Warden Lawrence E. Wilson said, "He smiled a smile that was a mile wide and said, 'Thanks . . . thanks a lot'."

The stay granted Armando Sanchez by Justice Douglas will hold till the Supreme Court disposes of an appeal to be filed.

Sanchez, a Texan, went berserk April 24, 1965, and fatally stabbed a civilian prison employee, Ralph Canning, 54. Sanchez, with a long record of violence, was serving five-years-to-life for selling narcotics.

Garrison Probe Hits FBI Ranks

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's assassination investigation reached into federal ranks today with grand jury subpoenas issued for an FBI agent and a former FBI agent.

Sheriff's deputies served a subpoena Friday on FBI agent Regis Kennedy in his federal building office. Deputies said the FBI told them Warren DeBrueys had been transferred to Washington.

DeBrueys reportedly worked with agent Kennedy in the New Orleans investigation of the assassination in 1963 and early 1964.

WAR

James Richard Shively, 25 of Texas; and Gordon Albert Larsol, 40, of Minnesota — were presented at a news conference.

Perhaps confused by insignia, the North Vietnamese account gave them Navy rankings, saying Hughes and Larsol were commanders and Shively was a lieutenant (j.g.). A Hanoi dispatch of the Soviet news agency Tass concerning the same group said Hughes was a colonel, Larsol a lieutenant colonel and Shively a lieutenant.

Tass said the three were led to the news conference at the International Club through streets sounding with "shouts of anger."

Guilty Plea Entered In Novato Shooting

William H. Hovey Sr., 59, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to shooting at a deputy sheriff who was attempting to arrest him Jan. 18 for an inebriacy hearing.

Judge Peter Allen Smith certified the case to Marin Superior Court for sentencing May 15 at 9:30 a.m.

Hovey, of 109 San Felipe Way, Novato, shot at Deputy Anthony J. Russo with a revolver. He in turn was shot through the chest by the officer.

Out Of Hospital

Roland A. Ashner, 48, of 22 Fairfax Avenue, San Rafael, lease car manager for J and B Ford, Corte Madera, was discharged yesterday from Marin General Hospital following overnight observation after he became ill at work Thursday.

Detour Planned

Westbound traffic on East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley will be diverted after tomorrow over Ashford Avenue and Lomita Drive through the summer to permit widening of the avenue east of Camino Alto.

Youth Also Facing Charge Of Burglary

An 18-year-old San Francisco youth, already charged with auto theft, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a felony burglary count

The youth, Danny Lee Zimmerman, alias Raymond D. Quinn and Daniel Ray Farris, allegedly burgled the apartment of Arnold B. Hunter at 260 Canal Street, San Rafael, on April 3. Judge Peter Allen Smith scheduled plea entry for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, the same day Zimmerman is to plead to the auto theft charge.

Emptied Purse Found

Theft of a purse containing $3 in a burglary of the unlocked home of Mrs. Claudette Maier, 685 Barberry Lane, Terra Linda, Tuesday was reported yesterday by sheriff's officers. She told officers the purse, empty, was later found in the street.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY in the Heart of our County

Marin pioneers chose a site in the heart of our county as a final resting place for their families. Today this location—at the west end of Fifth Avenue in San Rafael—is still convenient to all Marin points.

Marinites who choose Mount Tamalpais do so with the assurance that its beauty will grow with the years. The interest from a quarter-million dollar endowment fund—twice the legal requirement—is dedicated to the constant care and improvement of this 57-acre site.

Perhaps—like many Marin families—you wish to make your own final arrangements to spare others difficult decisions. If so, we invite your inquiry or a personal visit.

Docks, Decks Are The Place To Be For Yachting's Opener

By MOLLY MARIN

Sails will be set and bows turned toward the Golden Gate tomorrow as Marin yachtsmen and their families officially usher in the sailing season on San Francisco Bay.

Commodore and Mrs. Patrick Kirrane of San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, will lead a large contingent from the club in the opening day yacht parade. Like other club yachts, the flagship Andale will be carrying identifying balloons in many colors. Sharing the day with guests who do not often have an opportunity to be on the water, the Kirranes have invited Pat's sister, Miss Helen Concannon of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. James Moore of Belvedere and Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Angel of San Rafael to join them. Kathy Kirrane will assist her parents.

THE BIMI'S TRADITIONS will be maintained. Her skipper, Basil Knauth, will don an antique admiral's outfit, complete with fore and aft hat and heavy gold epaulets. The signal cannon, which on one opening day inadvertently started the whole nautical parade, will be mounted in its customary position. Fifteen guests will be injoying Mr. and Mrs. Knauths' hospitality on Bimi.

DESPITE DELAYS in winter refurbishing the A. C. Andersons of Belvedere will leave Corinthian Yacht Club with a merry group aboard. Their Bounty class racing yacht has an intriguing name: Winsome (for win some and lose some).

THE PRIVATEER, which will sail to Hawaii on the Transpacific yacht race this summer, will be out on opening day. David and Betty Allen and their family will have to miss the parade, but will be on the water in the afternoon.

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY will be the honored guest and speak at a cocktail party given Wednesday by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sperrys at their home in Rolling Hills, Tiburon. Mrs. Sperry explains that "only 400" guests can be accommodated for the party, which is scheduled from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. It will be a benefit for the Delano Farm Workers Health Clinic and Caesar Chavez, leader of the farm workers organization, will be a guest. Hostess committee members are Mesdames Richard Adams, Alvin Goldstein, John Newell, Jules Becker and Elaine Guthrie.

THE C. JOHN BERNTS, John B. Sorensens and the Gerald Cummins will host a cocktail party tonight at the Sleepy Hollow home of the latter couple preceding the annual Western party of the Grape Booth Guild of Sunny Hills. Among the guests are Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Lewis, Richard Allison, David Lewis, William Mueser, Harold Anderson, George Pasha, Jack Stickney, Ronald Hurt, Gerald Graham and Drs. and Mesdames John Murphy and Phillip Crumley.

A RECEPTION WILL be held at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base following the change of command ceremony and review at Hamilton on Wednesday, honoring Maj. Gen. E. A. Chapman and Maj. Gen. James R. Winn.

Invitations have been extended to civic and business leaders, officers of the Western North American Air Defense Command and Fourth Air Force and their wives. In the receiving line at the reception to be held from 5 to 7 p.m. will be Gen. Raymond J. Reeves, commander of the North American Air Defense Command, who will be here from NORAD headquarters in Colorado Springs; Maj. Gen. James R. Winn, new commander of Western NORAD region at Hamilton, and his wife, and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. E. A. Chapman. He is former commander of Western NORAD region at Hamilton, who is leaving for Colorado Springs, to be chief of staff at NORAD.

A SURPRISE SHOWER in Corte Madera turned into a surprise for everyone on Wednesday. Mrs. Jerry Martinez, the hostess, told guest of honor, Mrs. Mack Odom, it was to be a jewelry party. Since they lived next door, everyone brought gifts, hiding them in large paper bags. When time for the honoree's arrival came, in walked Mr. Odom with a box of cigars and the news, "It's a boy." He filled in for his wife, Etha, opening gifts and telling the excited guests she'd gone to the hospital early that afternoon. Mark Dwane Odom, unmindful of his month-early arrival, weighed in at five and a half pounds.

THE 85TH BIRTHDAY of Mrs. Frank Goodwin of Fresno was celebrated at a family luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Winblad in Tiburon. Mrs. Goodwin, Mr. Winblad's aunt, has been visiting in Tiburon.

June 17 Wedding Is Planned By Barbara L. Hay

The engagement of Barbara Louise Hay and Gregory James Hobbs Jr. of San Rafael has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hay in Denver.

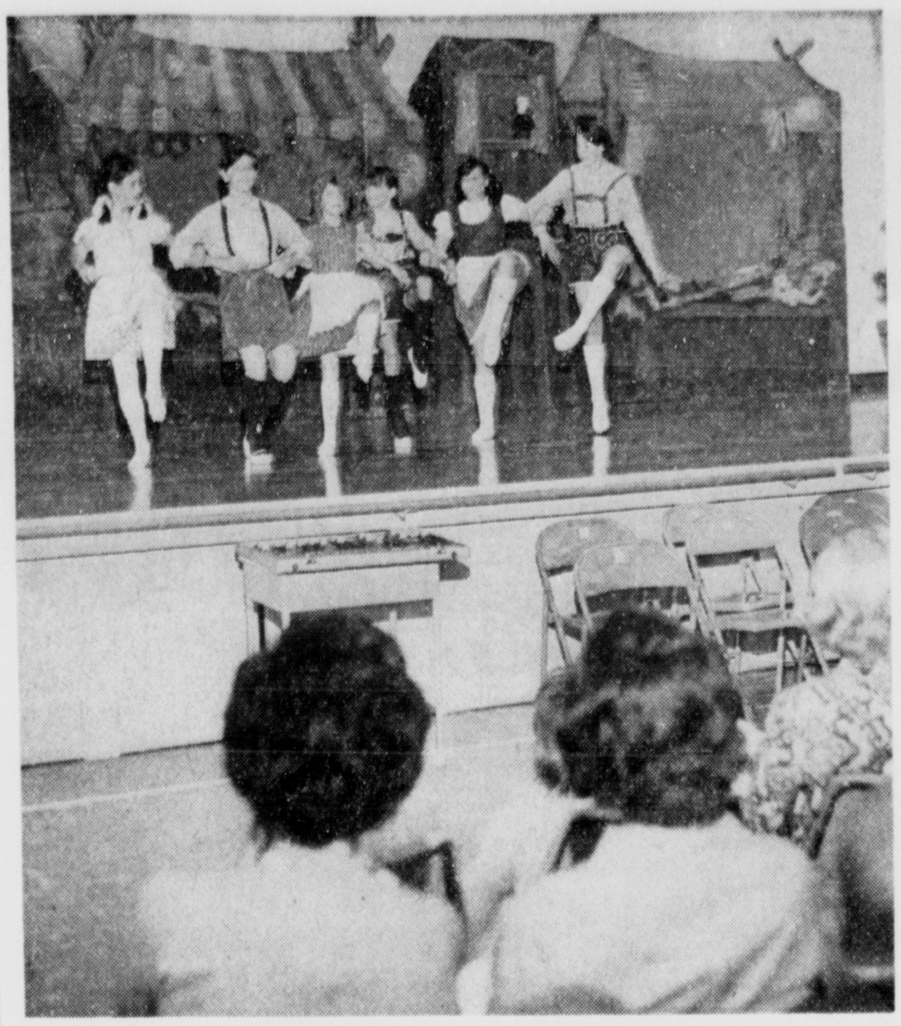
The future bridegroom is the son of Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Gregory Hobbs of San Rafael and the brother of Edmund, William, Barbara and Joseph Hobbs of San Rafael. He was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind. and is employed as a teacher in New York City.

Barbara will receive her degree next month from Colorado State College where she is a member of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

Following their wedding which is planned for June 17, the couple will train with the Peace Corps at Los Angeles Teacher's College. They will be assigned to educational television in Columbia, South America, upon completing their training.

In Career College

Linda Benz and Sharon Dahl have been accepted into the Patricia Stevens Career College in San Francisco. Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Benz of Woodacre, has chosen a course in Secretarial Training, while Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Dahl, of Novato, will take a course in fashion classes.



DOLLS ON STAGE

Fifth and sixth grade students of San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow represented Tyrolean dolls on stage during the "Festival of Dolls" portion of the arts program held yesterday afternoon in the school assembly hall. A tour of the classrooms followed with parents and friends viewing art and creative writing examples done by the students. (Independent-Journal photo)

Generation Gap Will Be Talk's Topic

The generation gap will be the subject of the Rev. Charles B. Gompertz's talk to the Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of Our Saviour, Mill Valley, at its quarterly meeting on May 17.

He will speak in Hammond Hall of the church following communion at 9:30 a.m. A salad luncheon will be served after the meeting.

Formerly curate of St. John's Church, Ross, and Vicar of St. Augustine's Mission, Fairfax, the Rev. Gompertz was appointed Vicar of The Church in Ignacio. His parish has been the subject of articles in "Time" and "Life" magazines and of a KPIX special report.

Kermit Speeg Jr. To Wed Houston Girl On June 20

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Woodward of Houston, Tex., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Donna Lee, to Kermit Vincent Speeg Jr. of Larkspur.

The bride-elect was graduated from the University of Houston, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority.

The future bridegroom, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Kermit V. Speeg of Larkspur, was graduated from Rice University and is now working on his doctorate at that school. Marilyn and Tom Speeg of Larkspur are his sister and brother.

The wedding will be June 20 at Rice University chapel, Houston.

The marriage of Stephanie Rice and Marc Chaput has just been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Russell Rice III of Belvedere.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chaput of San Mateo and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Longuy of San Jose.

The wedding took place at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Eugene, Ore., April 23. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Alexis, who flew from Denver, Colo., where she is attending school. Gene Chaput was his brother's best man.

Stephanie wore a pale yellow ensemble for the wedding. A reception was held at the apartment of the newlyweds.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. William DeJung and Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Becker, and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Paul Becker, all of Belvedere. She is the sister of Michael, Alexis, Russell and Timothy Rice.

She is a graduate of San Domenico and is attending the University of Oregon. Stephanie and Marc are continuing their studies at the University of Oregon, where Marc will receive his diploma in August.

MRS. MARC CHUPAT

Former Marinite Wins Honors In Journalism Work

Mrs. Richard Berg, the former Jane Schave of San Rafael, has won four North Dakota Press Women awards. Mrs. Berg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Schave, of San Rafael, is the co-editor of the weekly Hebron Herald, Hebron, N.D.

The awards, given at an annual banquet last month, were for a news story that dealt with a blizzard in March of last year, for writing an editorial on a school tax increase, for a critical review of a musical, and for editing a weekly newspaper by a woman.

Mrs. Berg was a member of the San Rafael High School class of 1957. Her mother is a fifth grade teacher at Coleman School, San Rafael.

Veronica Gelardi's Troth To John M. Foy Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Gelardi of Mill Valley announce the engagement of their daughter, Veronica Gelardi, to John Moran Foy.

The news was revealed recently with the traditional flower and candle ceremony at the Delta Gamma sorority house at the University of the Pacific, where Ronni, as the bride-elect is known, is in her senior year.

A serenade by members of the University of the Pacific Chapter of Delta Upsilon, of which John is president, marked congratulations of his fraternity brothers.

The bride-elect was graduated from Tamalpais High School. She is the sister of Mrs. William T. Fereira of San Rafael, Paul Gelardi, who is attending the California Western University in San Diego, and Frank Gelardi, a student at Tamalpais High School. She is the granddaughter of Howard McEwen of Sonoma.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Earl D. Lackey of Las Vegas, Nev., and John M. Foy of Los Angeles and the brother of Louise Foy.

He is a graduate of Palos Verdes High School, and following his graduation in June from the University of the Pacific will attend the Thunderbird Foreign Trade School in Arizona.

A Popular Job

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey of occupations of 1966 Barnard College graduates shows that teaching remains the most popular choice for both jobs and graduate study.

Of the 388 women polled, 40 per cent were enrolled in full-time graduate programs and 48 per cent were employed. Eight per cent were at home, job hunting or traveling. Of the employed, teaching claimed the greatest number of respondents.

Bias Section Takes Another Technique

By EUNICE FARMER

The front section of my dress is to be cut on the bias and the rest is on the straight grain of the fabric. When I assembled it as usual, the front simply didn't hang right. It seemed to draw up at the side sections. Is there a special way of handling any section that is cut on the bias?

MRS. N.A.C

DEAR MRS. N.A.C.:

So glad you asked this question. It has occurred to me to mention this, but somehow just hadn't gotten around to it. Yes, you must treat the bias section in a different technique. When pinning to the side section, you must stretch the bias section slightly, giving it the give in the seamline that the fabric needs.

It doesn't matter if the lower end of the garment doesn't meet. Just remember to pull the bias section as you pin. Before pressing the seams, check this seam carefully and be sure it hangs correctly. It takes a little practice to give just the right amount of stretch to this seam.

Another word of advice, I don't recommend bias cut skirts to any of you gals who are very rounded in the hips. They have a tendency to grow, in other words, they get longer and more narrow the more they hang in your closet.

MRS. HOWARD GODFREY, Marcellus, N.Y., is this week's tailor trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

I'm one of those gals who always ends up with a large piece of material left over that is too large to throw away but too small to really do anything with. It always ends up just one more piece to be added to my scrap drawer in hopes one day I will find just the place to use it. Today I found it.

I was ready to run off to a bridal shower when to my horror I found I was completely out of any kind of wrappings. I went to my scrap drawer and found just the thing to fit the size of my gift box. I cut it to fit and tied the box with scraps of rickrack.

The bride-to-be was very excited and said, "It's the first wrapping I've really seen that I could put to good use. I'm going to make an apron out of it." Let your imagination go wild. There are any number of sewing items that could be used; here's your chance.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

I was making a covered cording and thought I followed your instructions to a letter. But, can you imagine my surprise when I found that after pulling the cording through the bias fold, there wasn't any left inside like I expected. What did I do wrong?

MRS. J. McC.

DEAR MRS. K. McC.:

You evidently forgot a very important step! You must take a strip of cording twice as long as the finished cording will be. The center of your cord must be fastened securely to the end of your bias strip.

After machine stitching and trimming excess from the bias strip, you are ready to pull the end oft he cord to turn the cording right side out. As you are pulling the end of the cord, the excess cord is threading its way into the bias strip so that when this is completed, your tubing will have a cord in the center to keep it firm.

I am sure you will find my leaflet called "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts" very helpful. Send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Eunice Farmer, in care of this newspaper and your step-by-step instructions will be sent to you.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

Whatever happened to the old-fashioned basting? I was taught to baste everything, and you always recommend pinning. Can you really teach an old dog new tricks?

MRS. G.W.W.

DEAR MRS. G.W.W.:

Many years ago, women did baste everything before stitching on the machine. However, today we have improved upon this method. We have found through bitter experience that basting didn't keep the top layer of fabric from shifting forward as we machine stitched. For this reason, basting didn't always work.

With the new improvements on sewing machines and the presser foot that allows us to machine stitch over pins, you will find that placing your pins horizontal to a vertical seam and stitching over them is the only way to prevent the seams from shifting. Try it, this new trick will make a believer out of you.

KISMET — Chuck Auerbach and Janet Jacobs enjoy a tender moment as Reggie Waldon (right) lends an air of mystery to this scene from "Kismet on the Mountain," this year's Mountain Play to be performed May 14 and 21 in Mount Tamalpais amphitheater.

Specialty Act Win For Airmen

Three Hamilton Air Force Base airmen won the specialty act competition in the Air Defense Command talent contest at Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich., last week.

A/2c Roberto Landin, A/2c Robert Mendes and A/3c Cora Slinker, all of whom live in the barracks on the base, combined for their presentation of "The Swinger." Airman Landin also placed second in solo dancing. S/Sgt. Dulace Scott, who also lives in the barracks, won second place in the semiclassical vocalist division.

First-place winners will go on to the Air Force "world-wide" finals at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

Child Charge Warrant Issued

Bench warrant for arrest of Herbert Paul Stonecipher, 34, was issued by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court yesterday after his failure to appear on charges of mistreating two children.

Judge Smith forfeited $110 bail previously set for Stonecipher and set new bail at $276.

Stonecipher, of 245 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, was arrested by San Anselmo police April 28 after his wife said he had beaten two of their children, aged 3 and 4, "black and blue."

Club House Site To Be Discussed

Olav Lodge, Sons of Norway, will discuss sites proposed for building a clubhouse at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Corte Madera Recreation Center.

The meeting of the year-old Marin lodge, now conducting a membership drive, is open to anyone of Norwegian descent, reported secretary Ragnhild Costa of Mill Valley.

'Kismet On Mountain' Planned This Year

The 50th annual production of Marin's Mountain Play — "Kismet on the Mountain," this year —will be performed May 14 and 21 at 2 p.m. in the outdoor amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais.

Produced by the Mountain Play Association, the outdoor spectacle is a community effort assited by associations, business firms, outdoor clubs, individuals and Mount Tamalpais State Park personnel.

"Kismet on the Mountain" has been adapted from Edward Knoblock's play, "Kismet," by Mill Valley playwright Dan Totheroh, who has been associated with the Mountain Play for 50 years, first as a young actor and in recent years as director.

For this non-musical adaptation, Totheroh has simplified the complicated plot. He has, at the same time, enlarged the cast to provide the spectacle that an outdoor amphitheater can provide.

Kismet, the Eastern name for fate, concerns a day in the life of a picturesque beggar and rogue, Hajj, who enters on a series of "Arabian Nights" adventures on a bag of gold obtained under false pretenses. A lost son and tender love story of a young girl and a caliph add their elements of mystery and drama.

Totheroh suggested that spectators go early and picnic on the mountain before the play.

Attorney Says PT&T Gets Money's Worth

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Does Pacific Telephone get its money's worth from the fees it pays its parent company, American Telephone and Telepgraph Co.?

That question was asked yesterday by Deputy City Atty. William C. Taylor of San Francisco at the current hearings into Pacific's request for a large rate increase in California.

Robert M. Joses, Pacific assistant comptroller, told the California Public Utilities Commission that the subsidiary gets far more than what it pays American.

Payments are set at 1 per cent of Pacific's gross revenue, excluding miscellaneous revenue and will amount to $14.3 million this year, Joses said.

Pacific receives the benefits of continuous research by American; advice and assistance in engineering, traffic, plant, commercial, accounting, legal and other matters; financial advice and assistance, and royalty-free use of patented apparatus and equipment, Jose contended.

According to phone company figures, the 23 companies in the Bell System paid AT&T $110 million last year and received $122 million in services. George H. Eckhardt, Pacific's chief counsel, said he would provide the PUC a complete breakdown on what Pacific receives from AT&T for its fee payments.

Station Wagon Found

A 1962 Oldsmobile station wagon, stolen early last week from Campbell Bishop Chevrolet Co., 5880 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, was found yesterday by a Corte Madera police officer next door at J and B Ford Co., 5860 Paradise Drive, apparently undamaged.

Betty Rates Self For A C-Plus

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Betty Furness found her first appearance before a congressional committee just like taking an examination in school: "They never ask you the questions you are most prepared to answer."

Miss Furness, who left the ranks of television saleswomen to become President Johnson's adviser on consumer problems, yesterday recounted how she felt the previous day when he met with a Senate consumer subcommittee.

"I had a fund of information about that bill which they never asked me," she told a luncheon. "I guess if I were in school I might rate a C-plus for my performance."

DRAMA REVIEW

'Bells Are Ringing' Chorus Is Excellent

By KARL BARRON

Magnificent choral work and a number of excellent performances in the Novato Community Players' production of "Bells Are Ringing" kept last night's opening from being a dull and far too long musical offering. If director Art Bliss can step up the cues, cut scene changing time and possibly eliminate one production number, he'll have a really worthwhile show.

The familiar book and lyrics by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, set to Jule Styne's music, wears well. The songs are bright, the plot of the answering service girl who falls in love with a playwright is amusing and in spots touching. Sparkling accompaniment by Lorayne Crozier's piano with rhythm section keeps the vocalists on their toes.

SLOPPY WITH CUES

While Bliss has allowed his cast to be sloppy with cues and line learning, musical director Marie Bliss has done tremendous things with her chorus. Intricate arrangements are handled flawlessly, volume falls and swells with organ-like control and the lyrics are always understandable — which can not be said of many professional companies.

"Hello, Hello There," "Just In Time" and "The Party's Over" are particularly outstanding, but everything the chorus does is good.

Ella, the hello girl, is one of the most difficult roles in musical comedy, and was made famous by the late Judy Holliday. Lois Wright shows us all the capabilities needed for the role, singing, dancing, tossing off comedy lines and when necessary, being sincerely serious. Miss Wright appeared a bit on the low side last night, and was not aided by other actors' uncertainty on lines. Her singing is sure and controlled.

Max Keeler, as playwright Jeff Moss, also shows the potential and only needs more attack on the dramatic side. His songs, "Independent", "Just In Time", and "Better Than A Dream" are well done.

GOOD WORK

Don Leaf as Sandor, the book maker, turns in a clownishly delightful characterization, and teams well with Jackie Hall as Sue, the operator of Susanswerphone.

Joe Jacob and Alex Consagra as two bumbling policemen are consistently funny. Otto Haiungs does well with the song-composing dentist, and Rod Bagnall's takeoff on Marlon Brando is played with finesse. Scott Wright deserves mention for the tiny bit of Ludwig Smiley, with which the whole show seemed to come alive.

Sets by Gay Pitman and Jerry Young are functional, the subway backing practically a modern work of art. Most of the production seemed underlighted, with even the spotlight barely illuminating the actors' faces.

"Bells Are Ringing", which plays tonight and May 12, 13, 19 and 20, should settle down into good musical entertainment. The chorus alone is worth it.

As for cuts, I submit the "Mu-Cha-Cha" couldn't be missed. It's one of the lesser musical numbers, and there isn't space on the set for more than polite ballroom dancing.

Drath's Heckler Was A Parent

The lone heckler at pacifist Phillip Drath's appearance Thursday at San Rafael High School was a parent, not a student, Principal Alan Ellsberg said today.

Several parents of students asked to attend and were admitted, and the woman heckler was one of them, he said.

The students "couldn't have behaved in a more exemplary way," Ellsberg said, although a majority appeared to be opposed to Drath's position on the Vietnam war. "No student to my knowledge was anything but polite," he said.

Wage Increase

CHICAGO (AP)—The Teamsters Union has won a 76.04-cent-an-hour increase for its drivers across the nation and ended a 12-day strike-lockout in Chicago. The labor dispute cost the Chicago area economy an estimated $300 million. The pact must be voted on by union members.

Satellite Obeys British Signal

LONDON (AP) — The first satellite entirely designed and built in Britain, Ariel 3, obeyed a ground command and reported home last night on what it was finding in space.

On its fourth orbit over Britain, it took just two minutes to transmit data stored during the 95 minutes of one orbit.

The satellite is collecting data for five British agencies on high frequency atmospheric radio noise, mainly from thunderstorms; the amount of oxygen in the atmosphere between the satellite and the sun; very low frequency radiation above the ionosphere; numbers and temperature of electrons in the ionosphere and radio noise coming from galactic sources.

Ariel 3 rode into orbit on a U.S. rocket from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration test range at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

You'll have time to spare for pursuing your hobbies in this house, as its paneled walls, beamed ceilings and tile floors take little care. The landscaping is complete, including patios and walks, and the shrubs and trees are mature. So you can sit back and enjoy life in either the formal living room with its white brick fireplace, or the inviting family room with its Swedish fireplace. Customized touches throughout the house are reflected in the 4 bedrooms and 2 baths—all in immaculate condition and better than new. Owners transferred. Priced to sell. Don't miss this exceptional value.

TV REVIEW

What's Doing, And Who's On For Viewing

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Steve Allen's summer vareity series starts on CBS-TV June 14, and will be a weekly hour . . . another summer variety series starts on same network, "Away We Go," starring comedian George Carlin, singer-pianist Buddy Greco and the Buddy Rich orchestra, bows in June 3, also an hour each week . . . Pat Boone's daytime musical show disappears from NBC-TV at the end of June, and will be replaced July 3 by another panel program, "Personality," hosted by Larry Blyden.

Ed Sullivan's CBS-TV hour of May 21 will originate in its entirety from the World's Fair in Montreal, with the entertainment guests including Dinah Shore and Alan King . . . Barbra Streisand, previously announced as a May 14 guest with Sullivan, will not appear . . . Dame Judith Anderson will star in the title role of Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen" when the NBC-TV's "Hallmark Hall of Fame" opens its 17th season this fall . . . actor Robert Morley discusses his autobiography on the same network's "Today" show Monday . . . Conductor Arthur Fiedler is a "Today" visitor next Friday.

WALLACE INTERVIEW

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace will be interviewed about his plans for the 1968 presidential race on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" May 14 . . . there is some talk around Hollywood that Hugh Hefner might be considering reviving his late-night "Playboy Penthouse" television series, but in Los Angeles instead of Chicago . . . the name of defense attorney F. Lee Bailey's new fall ABC-TV series, in which he will visit celebrities in their homes for a half-hour each week in prime time, has been changed from "Inside Out" to "Good Company" . . . planned subjects for the series thus far include Vice President Hubert Humphrey, J. Paul Getty, John Glenn, Rex Harrison, Kirk Douglas, Paul Newman and the acting Redgrave family.

The programs: Peaceful uses of atomic energy are studied May 14 on CBS-TV's "The 21st Century" . . . "The Learning Process," an hour special exploring teaching methods in America, airs on NBC-TV June 21 . . . "Galileo," a 90-minute oratorio with music by Ezra Laderman and libretto by Joe Darion, will be a Whitsunday presentation on CBS-TV the morning of May 14 . . . what God or the church has to do with behavior is the subject of eight weekly discussions beginning on NBC-TV's "Frontiers of Faith" June 4.

COMBAT STRESS

An Army psychiatrist talks about combat stress in Vietnam on the "Today" program Monday . . . other "Today" highlights next week include: Tuesday—a film report on street preachers from the Drew University School of Theology, and a conversation with the director of the Harvard Observatory . . . Wednesday—a report on the child model . . . Friday — an interview with the executive director of the Philadelphia City Planning Commission.

"The Legend of Robin Hood," a 90-minute musical version of the famous tales, with a score by Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen, will be presented on NBC-TV next season . . . a daytime game show called "Let's Make a Deal" is reported set to move into prime time on NBC-TV May 21, replacing the canceled series "Hey, Landlord," apparently during the annual slow television period ahead.

Current business: Demonstrations of "a new photographic process for creating full-color images from black-and-white film" are to be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the ABC television center in New York . . . with video on a color binge, a breakthrough in this field could mean new life for old black-and-white movies and shows—and a shot in the arm for television programming . . . a trade paper reports that "Gulf & Western, which owns Paramount, has reached an agreement to buy Desilu . . . NBC-TV estimates that, as of April 1, an estimated 18.7 per cent of television households in America owned color sets.

VYING FOR MISS KTIM TITLE

One of these nine girls will be chosen Miss KTIM at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Novato Lodge. The winner will receive gifts and compete with the three runners-up at the Marin-Sonoma Fair in Petaluma for the Miss Marin title. The county titlist will compete for Maid of California honors at the State Fair in Sacramento. The contestants are, left to right: Carol Mahoney, Sandy Sutton and Pat Gebo, top row: Patricia Twohill, Jo Ann Sebaca, Francine Zita, Lonnie Hoyt, middle row, Sandy Bellach and Merth Ann Downing, foreground.

Levit is president of the San Francisco Tuberculosis and Health Association and co-chairman of the National Conference of Christians and Jews for Northern California.

Bruce Asks Courthouse Sale Date

County Administrator Alan Bruce has recommended that the board of supervisors call a public auction to sell the courthouse at 10 a.m., June 13, and stop waiting for the City of San Rafael to make an offer.

Bruce's recommendation, to go to supervisors Tuesday, suggests a minimum price of $900,000 for the downtown block, the same price offered by Harry H. Heifetz in December.

That offer was withdrawn after supervisors canceled public sale at the city's request to allow the city time to put together an offer. The offer has not yet come, and the county must know how much the property will bring prior to adopting the budget for next fiscal year, Bruce explained.

Proceeds from the sale are needed to complete payments of the hall of justice now under construction at the Civic Center.

Bath Request Brings Deputy

A San Francisco woman was taken to Napa State Hospital yesterday after startling a Tiburon resident by requesting a bath at an unexpected moment.

Mrs. A. Prill, 2081 Tiburon Boulevard, told Sheriff's Deputy Robert W. Barner she had just stepped out of her shower and was getting dressed at 11:30 a.m.

Suddenly she felt a hand on her shoulder. A female voice asked, "Could I take a bath, too?"

Mrs. Prill looked around to see a young woman in a long, red coat and high suede boots, who then turned and wandered outside by the swimming pool.

Deputy Barner said the woman, Andrea Eiger, 24, appeared dazed. She told the deputy Mrs. Prill was her mother-in-law from Egypt. She was taken to Napa State Hospital for 72-hour observation.

Dogs In Camp Are Favored

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A slim majority of persons testifying at a public hearing said they favor allowing campers to keep their dogs with them overnight in state parks.

This is, if the dogs are kept under tight control, and no special fees are charged.

Of the 53 persons appearing at the hearing yesterday, 30 favored permitting the dogs to remain overnight, and three favored present rules.

At a previous hearing in San Francisco, 25 of 30 persons favored allowing the dogs to remain overnight.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Development Of Brain Wave Helmet Greatly Aiding Science

VAN DELLEN

Telemetering the heart and brain waves has opened a new field of research. A Northwestern University halfback played all season with a $5,000 radio transmitter in his helmet. The device was connected to electroence-phalalographic electrodes that were glued to his scalp. Brain wave signals were conveyed to an instrument in the press box.

The study was conducted to determine whether the helmet protected the athlete from head injuries. Brain waves slow down whenever the individual is dazed or knocked unconscious from a blow on the head. The helmet afforded protection because there was only slight occasional slowing down despite the fact that offensive halfbacks take the worst beating in a football game.

NEW TECHNIQUES have made it possible to relay these signals to a distant point during activity. Formerly, during an EEG exam, the subject was not supposed to move. Telemetering the electrocardiogram of the heart or blood pressure is a new way to determine changes while the person is working, exerting himslef or sleeping. The electrocardiogram of a person with chest pain due to coronary disease is altered during exertion or excitement.

This type of equipment should not be confused with monitors found in the intensive care units and cornnary centers of many hospitals. These patients are critically ill and are connected to units that record respiration, blood pressure, pulse, and cardiac rhythm. The doctor and nurses have emergency equipment and drugs available the moment the breathing stops or a heart irregularity develops.

IN TELEMETRY the individual is up and about. The equipment radios messages concerning the action of the heart or brain to an electronic receiver that is watched by a physician.

ROSY OR PALE CHEEKED

Mrs. H. writes: Why do some children have rosy cheeks and others are pale or sallow?

REPLY

The rosy-cheeked youngster usually gets out of doors more often and is fed a well balanced diet, rich in proteins. Some children and adults are sallow by nature and will never look robust no matter how much fresh air they receive. These people are otherwise healthy and productive and live as long as others.

MARKED BY FRIGHT

Mrs. V. E. writes: If a pregnant woman was frightened by a dog in the fourth month, could this stop the baby's heart from growing so that the child will be born with heart disease?

REPLY

No, because development of the heart is almost complete by this time. Furthermore, the fetus cannot be "marked" by fright.

BEER, THE ARTERIES

M. L. writes: Could heavy beer drinking cause hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Serious heart trouble was reported recently among very heavy beer drinkers. Hardening of the arteries was not responsible.

BOTH RHEUMATIC

A. I. writes: Is arthritis the same as muscular rheumatism?

REPLY

No. Both are rheumatic conditions, but arthritis is confined to the joints and rheumatism favors the muscles.

CORNY

G. H. writes: Will eating soup cause dandruff on the scalp?

REPLY

No — not even noodle soup.

Urban League Will Open Job Office In Marin

The Bay Area Urban League will open an employment office in Marin City Monday to recruit and place candidates for on-the-job training.

Manning the office will be W. Robert Lomax Jr., Urban League field representative, and his assistant, Robbie Harvey, former Independent-Journal sports writer.

The Urban League, operating with a $600,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Labor, will seek jobs in Marin for those having a difficult time competing in the job market. The employer providing training programs is paid out of the league grant for his training costs, up to $40 a week, Lomax explained.

Such payments can continue for six months. Additional assistance is possible if the employee is reclassified.

Lomax will interview employers throughout the county, seeking those with training opportunities.

Today is Saturday, May 6, the 126th day of 1967 with 239 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Born on this day in 1856 was American explorer Robert Perry.

On this day in history:

In 1935, the Works Progress Administration, (WPA) was set up by Congress to provide work for the unemployed.

In 1937, the German dirigible "Hindenburg" exploded at Lakehurst, N.J., killing 36 passengers.

In 1941, Joseph Stalin became premier of Russia, replacing V. M. Molotov.

In 1960, Britain's Princess Margaret was married to commoner Anthony Armstrong-Jones.

A thought for the day — American author Washington Irving once said: "A woman's whole life is a history of the affections."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Bath Coup Still Usable Even When Opponent Knows About It

The Bath Coup was first devised as a deceptive play, and it still often works against unwary opponents, but it has great value also when the opponent knows quite well what is going on.

The effect is to force the leader to shift to a different suit, and as a result declarer gains time.

Opening lead — ♡ K

West leads the king of hearts, and declarer executes the Bath Coup by refusing to win the first trick.

WHAT HAPPENS

In the standard Bath Coup, declarer has A-J-x of the suit led, but the effect is the same.

If West incautiously leads another heart, declarer will get two heart tricks.

West is too clever to continue the hearts, and he hits upon a shift to diamonds.

Declarer ruffs in dummy and tries a spade finesse, losing to the king.

Back comes another diamond, and declarer ruffs in dummy again.

Now declarer draws the last rump and starts on the clubs by taking the king and then trying a finesse with the jack.

East wins with the queen of clubs and returns a heart.

WINS WITH ACE

Declarer can win this in the dummy with the ace of hearts, feeling very pleased that he still has this card to win the trick.

He then runs the clubs, discarding his losing heart.

The contract is then safe.

South would lose his contract if he won the first heart with dummy's ace.

Whenever East got in with the queen of clubs he would return a heart, and West would take two heart tricks.

The defenders would thus take two hearts, one trump and one club, defeating the contract.

♣ A J 5 4 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If the jack of clubs were changed to the queen, the hand would just barely qualify for an opening bid.

More Than An Open And Shut Matter

MIAMI (AP) — Marine biologists know that oysters open and close with the tides while feeding.

Now biologists at the University of Miami marine laboratory report that oysters moved inland to Illinois and Missouri eventually open and close on what would be the tide phases in those locations although there is no tidal action to affect them.

The biologists haven't figured out why.

TO PRAY AT SHRINE—Pope Paul VI will bring his search next Saturday for peace in Vietnam to Portugal's Virgin Mary Shrine of Fatima. In this photo, a woman prays before a statue erected to the Virgin Mary on a hillside spot where one of the apparitions of the famed "Miracle of Fatima" took place 50 years ago. In Marin, an all night vigil will be held on Friday.

TOO MUCH SMUGNESS

Noted Leader Sites Present Church Ills

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

For many centuries, the parish-congregation has been the basic local unit of church life.

Today, many feel that it is obsolete, and that radically new forms must be invented if the Christian community is to minister effectively to contemporary society.

One of America's ablest Protestant ministers explained in an interview this week why the parish-congregation is no longer a satisfactory vehicle for doing the work of Christ in urban areas. And he offered some practical suggestions for reorganizing local churches along more functional lines.

WRONG THINGS

Rev. Dr. David Colwell, pastor of the First Congregational United Church of Christ in downtown Washington, D. C., said at least three things are seriously wrong with the present set-up.

First, "Too many congregations use up all of their resources on keeping going." They invest so much money and manpower in institutional housekeeping that they have little or nothing to contribute to the outside world.

The second shortcoming is closely related to the first. The typical parish-congregation is preoccupied with providing a chaplaincy for its own members. It is not geared for the humble, servant role which Jesus performed in His compassionate ministry to the poor the sick, the lonely and the ostracized of society.

ONE PASTOR?

Third, "Most congregations are of such size that they can afford only a single pastor." This one man is expected to function as preacher, counselor, friend, teacher, administrator, and representative of the church in civic affairs. "It is almost impossible for any individual to be good at all of these things," said Dr. Colwell. "It is small wonder that in trying to do them all, so many of us parsons fail to do any of them really well."

The problems are too deep-seated, Dr. Colwell believes, to be remedied by merely tinkering with the traditional structure of the parish-congregation. Drastic changes are required.

The first step, he said, is to line up several congregations which are ready to take s risks and make some sacrifices "The number could be as few as three or four, or as many as 10." They wouldn't necessarily have to be from the same denomination: It might make for greater vitality if they weren't.

CHAPLAINCY

"One of the existing church buildings—the largest one—would be maintained as a house of worship for all of the participating groups. Two highly-trained pastors would there carry forward the ministry of preaching and worship and the Sacraments—that is, the chaplaincy function."

Services would be held at various times during the week, instead of being focused on 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Families planning weekend trips could worship on Saturday morning, or a week night.

Some of the other church buildings would be remodeled to serve as education centers. Church buildings not needed for education would be sold, and the money formerly spent on their upkeep could be put to work in community service projects.

"I think that such a plan would work, and provide an exciting and challenging opportunity for the persons and churches involved," said the tall, brawny-shouldered clergyman who once played fullback for Yale.

Racial Ghetto Work Is Urged

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 3.3 million-member United Presbyterian Church U.S.A. has been urged to embark on a program to "demonstrate to Americans of all races and cultures that it is possible to combat potentially-explosive situations in racial ghettos."

The project, proposed by the National Presbyterian Health and Welfare Association, would initiate a massive economic development, educational and community organization program for Mexican-Americans in the East Los Angeles area and

Church Sets Giving Record

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — For the first time in the history of the Assemblies of God, giving to world ministries in 1966 by the 8,443 churches of the Pentecostal denomination in the United States exceeded $11 million.

This was $2.26 million, or 14.7 per cent more than in 1965, when contributions totaled about $9.1 million, officials announced. The 1966 increase was about five times larger than the 1965 increase of 2.8 per cent.

Christian Healing Exponent To Speak

Rev. Alfred W. Price of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, will be guest of Holy Innocents' Episcopal Park, 2 Tamalpais Drive in Corte Madera at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Dr. Price is a leading exponent of Christian healing in the nation. He is also a warden of the Order of St. Luke.

Clergy Invited To Conference On Family Life

Clergy representing all Marin denominations have been invited to a workshop on family planning and teen-age counseling to be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Coral Room at Marin General Hospital.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin.

Dr. Thomas Lowry, a psychiatrist, will discuss some of the family problems he has seen in Marin as a result of his personal practice.

Also Mrs. Louis George, association executive director, will discuss operation of the clinic and what services are available.

Chairman of the meeting will be Rev. Karel Botermans, pastor of the Unitarian Church of Marin.

Religion And War Is Topic Of Talk

"Can Religion Stop War?" is the topic of a talk at 8 p.m. tomorrow by Richard Groger at 25 Mt. Lassen Drive.

His talk is a part of a series of discussions on contemporary life sponsored by the Spiritual Assembly of Baha's of Marin County.

Former Marin Pastor To Head Action Group

Rev. Robert K. Menzel, first pastor of Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley, has been named full-time executive secretary to Hub-CAP, new downtown church-community action program in Portland, Ore.

Rev. Menzel is currently assistant professor of religion and director of recruitment and public relations at Concordia College in Portland. He joined the faculty in 1959, resigning the Mill Valley post.

He will take over his new job in June. He was granted a two-year leave of absence by Concordia to accept the post.

Hub-CAP is sponsored by 13 downtown Portland churches.

History Of Hymnal To Be Discussed

Mrs. Leo Hamilton, church school superintendent of the Novato Community Methodist Church, will be guest speaker at tomorrow's 940 a.m. adult inquirers class.

Mrs. Hamilton, a certified director of music in the church, will discuss the new official Methodist Hymnal which was published last fall.

St. Stephen's Youth To Host Watts Group

A group of eight young Episcopalians from Grace Episcopal Church, in the Los Angeles Watts area, will visit Belvedere this weekend as part of the young people's fellowship program of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 3 Bayview Avenue.

A Negro spiritual-folk mass, accompanied by guitar music, will be presented tomorrow at both the 9 a.m. and the 11 a.m. services.

Advisors Mr. and Mrs. James Grau of Los Angeles are traveling with the visiting fellowship.

St. Stephen's rector, Rev. Llewellyn A. White, and his assistant, Rev. Jerry Drino, and Belvedere young people will escort their guests through Muir Woods and then on a tour of San Francisco.

Rev. and Mrs. Drino, who came to Belvedere from Grace Episcopal, accompanied a group of teen-agers from Belvedere-Tiburon area on a fellowship trip to Watts last January, where they met the young people who will be their reciprocal guests this weekend.

Local teen-agers and their guests will bring their sleeping bags and stay at the parish hall tonight.

Rev. White said the term "turned-on" and its meaning is one of the topics teen-agers from both areas have indicated they want to discuss informally.

Tomorrow the youngsters will participate in opening day activities at local yacht clubs.

Prayer Vigil Slated For A Lasting Peace

An all-night vigil of prayer for true peace will be held Friday night at the Marist Fathers Seminary Chapel, 1675 Grand Avenue in San Rafael.

It is being held to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Vision of Fatima in Portugal.

The Marin vigil is being sponsored by the Blue Army of Our Lady and the Legion of Mary. This will be the second year for the vigil.

Recitations of the rosary, stations of the cross, sermons and meditations and a 5 a.m. High Mass in Latin will be held. The Mass will be a concelebration by several Marin priests.

In connection with the anniversary, Pope Paul VI will carry his quest for peace in Vietnam to the shrine at Fatima. He said he would visit Fatima next Saturday "to honor the most holy Mary and seek her intercession in favor of peace."

Family Crusade Will Open Tomorrow At Marin Church

A family crusade with Charles J. Senechal, evangelist from San Lorenzo, as guest speaker, will begin at 7 p.m. tomorrow and run through May 12 at the Southern Marin Assembly of God, 260 East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley.

Monday through Friday the services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Senechal will use as his text, "The Whole Gospel for the Whole Family."

At the 11 a.m. services tomorrow, Sharon Wilson, missionary to Nigeria, will discuss her impending work in the mission field.

Miss Wilson will soon become associated with the Assemblies of God Dispensary in Rahama, Nigeria.

Probation Set In Gun-Waving

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court yesterday placed Chester G. Laws, 41, on three years probation for threatening his estranged wife, Frances, with a .22-caliber derringer on Feb. 6.

He also ordered Laws, of 14 Warner Court, San Rafael, to surrender his guns to the sheriff's office.

Laws, an insurance agent, was wounded in the abdomen in the fracas at Mrs. Laws' home, 83 Cypress Drive, Fairfax. He pleaded no-contest Feb. 21.

Friendly Horseplay Ends In Broken Leg

A Novato man wound up with a fractured right leg Thursday as a result of a wrestling match with a friend in San Rafael.

Charles O. Sahl of 1346 Denlyn Street, who was treated at Marin General Hospital, told police a round of horseplay at his place of employment, Rossi's Garage at 595 Francisco Boulevard, ended when the friend (whom he did not name) toppled on him on the concrete floor.

Auto Is Stolen

A white and blue 1955 Chevrolet, license DXL-316, was stolen between 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Thursday from a municipal parking lot at Second Street and Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, owner Richard J. Jauch of 82 Billou Street told police.

Suspect Charged With Dog Theft

George Arnold Greenhouse, 26, of Oakland, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court Thursday on a felony complaint alleging petty theft of a dog, and having a prior conviction.

Plea entry is at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Greenhouse allegedly purchased the Doberman pinscher by giving the owner, Muriel Whittaker of Forest Knolls, a worthless $45 check Nov. 11 sheriff's officers said.

Prelim Budget Gets Approval

Directors of Tiburon Fire Protection District Thursday night adopted a preliminary budget of $197,254.66 and set pubiic hearing for June 15 at 8 p.m. at the main firehouse on Tiburon Boulevard.

The budget includes $105,902, salaries; $21,300, maintenance; $30,052.66, capital outlay, and $40,000, reserve funds.

Chief Franklin. Buscher was authorized to spend $950, if necessary, to convert the district's new $1,500 water tanker for fire-fighting.

Bicycle Is Taken

Mrs. Yopie Lewis of 402 Alexander Avenue, Larkspur, told Corte Madera police her child's bicycle was taken Thursday from Larkspur-Corte Madera School. The bicycle is butterscotch colored, with high handlebars.

1,500 Yachts Parade In Season Opener Tomorrow

San Francisco Bay will be alive with color and excitement tomorrow, for it's the day that boats of all shapes and sizes parade in their finest silks and satins.

It's the day of days for boaters, skippers of power and sailing craft. And 1,500 of them are expected in the annual parade sponsored by the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association to mark the opening of yacht season.

Power boats will leave the starting gate at Crissy Field at 11 a.m. and the sailboats get off at noon. From Crissy Field, San Francisco, the parade route goes along the bay to Pier 45 at Fisherman's Wharf, the boats passing single file inside Anita Rock, allowing spectators at St. Francis Yacht Club, in San Francisco—best spectator vantage point—close up views.

Rendezvous will be from 10 to 11 a.m. for power boats and 10:30 a.m. to noon for sailing craft, near Racoon Strait between the western tip of Angel Island and Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon.

Power cruisers will be divided into three groups—green, blue and red. Marin County clubs will be in the green and red. In the first (green) fleet will be the boats of Corinthian Yacht Club, San Francisco Y.C. of Belvedere, Sausalito Y.C., Sausalito Cruising Club, Paradise Key Y.C. and Strawberry Cove Y.C.

In the third (red) fleet will be Marin Y.C., San Rafael Y.C., North Bay Y.C., and Loch Lomond Y.C.

Once again, the Corinthian Y. C. will sponsor "Blessing of the Pleasure Craft Fleet" ceremonies, with members of the clergy representing Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths doing the blessing. The clergymen will be stationed aboard a Navy vessel anchored off the Corinthian Y.C. breakwater. Capt. Elmer Towle, USNR, a member of Corinthian Y.C., will chairman the event.

Boats will pass the Navy ship's port side, approaching astern by way of Racoon Strait. All boats blessed will receive scrolls commemorating the event. Boat skippers must write to the Corinthian Y.C. to receive the scrolls, giving name of boat, and owner's name and address.

Awards and trophies will go to the best decorated boats and to the club with the most boats participating. Reviewing boat will be anchored near the St. Francis Y.C., San Francisco.

Tempers Explode As Giants Lose Beanball Battle

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maury Wills was talking about his reunion with the Los Angeles Dodgers when someone asked him if he had any friends among the San Francisco Giants.

"No," replied one of the game's fiercest battlers. "Actually I don't believe I have any friends in this league. It's not any great hostility, but when I've got the uniform on it's every man for himself."

Less than 24 hours later, the Giants showed that Wills — in uniform at least — is no friend of theirs.

In the sixth inning of what turned out to be a 7-2 Pittsburgh victory last night, pitcher Ray Sadecki hit Wills on the right knee with a pitch and knocked him out of the front lines for at least several days and possibly a week.

"You can tell when a guy's trying to hit a man, and he was trying to hit Wills on the first pitch," Pirate Manager Harry Walker said after the game.

"Wills has been hot. They know he's been hot so they were throwing at him."

The Giants' clubhouse door was closed so no one was available to give the San Francisco version of the sixth-inning incident that led to a seventh-inning incident.

No matter how it came about, Wills hit the dirt on Sadecki's first pitch, then got hit on the right knee on the next pitch.

He left the game two innings later when his knee started to swell. He also displayed a bruise on the inside of the knee, the same one that gave him so much trouble last season.

The 34-year-old third baseman, whom the Pirates acquired from the Dodgers during the winter, rapped two hits in the game, raising his average to .351. He has scored 12 runs and stolen five bases.

In other National League games Cincinnati crushed Atlanta 14-7, Chicago stopped St. Louis 5-3, Philadelphia downed Los Angeles 3-1 and New York nipped Houston 3-2.

In the inning after Wills was hit, the Pirates' Tommie Sisk, who pitched a four-hitter, fired a pitch that sailed over Hal Lanier's head. Lanier took a few steps toward the mound, and players from both teams rushed onto the field, but there was no contact.

George Spriggs and Donn Clendenon each drove in two Pirate runs while Matty Alou contributed three hits to a 14-hit offensive.

Both Cincinnati and Atlanta erupted in a rash of hits, but the Reds — who had been shut out in their previous two games — won by including three homers and four doubles in their 18 hits. Atlanta had 17 hits.

John Edwards clouted a three-run homer for Cincinnati while Tommy Harper and Deron Johnson also connected.

A tie-breaking single by Ernie Banks capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning that propelled Chicago past St. Louis. Banks also singled home a run in the sixth, the first run off Cardinal pitching in 25 innings. Orlando Cepeda homered for St. Louis in the fourth.

Gary Sutherland scored two runs and John Callison drove in two for Philadelphia. Sutherland scored after leading off the fourth with a single and the sixth with a double. Callison singled home Sutherland in the fourth.

Upset! Drake Shocks Redwood

A gambler could wind up on welfare trying to bet on the Marin County Athletic League baseball race.

There are more surprises than in a vintage Hitchcock movie, and it's just as hairy.

Take yesterday, which was not Friday the 13th but could have been.

Redwood, all set to jaunt of into the sunset, title in hand came up against Drake, the team down the street that can count its wins on one finger.

Redwood fell afoul of a three-run inning and amazing Ralph Asay and is now knee-deep in a four-team race, thanks to a 3-2 jolt at the hands of the spoiling Pirates.

The Giants could probably cry in their cokes with plenty of company. The Terra Linda Trojans, who got the same bitter medicine from Drake not too long ago, got some more castor oil yesterday when they were jammed by an Indian uprising, losing a 10-6 free-for-all nightmare to Tamalpais.

Only Marin Catholic came up smiling after taking a 5-3 verdict from Novato in a battle for second place status.

The whole thing left Redwood still on top, at 6-2, but the gap has narrowed with Marin Catholic at 5-3, and Terra Linda and Novato at 4-4.

The Redwood miseries were no fault of wonder boys, Ken Johnson and Kevin Wilson.

Johnson blasted a mighty 400-foot solo homer in the first inning, his fourth of the season, breaking a Redwood school mark that he set last year.

Wilson blooped in a run-scoring double in the third inning and pitched four near-perfect innings of no-hit, no-run relief. But that was after the cat was out of the bag.

Drake got all its runs in the fourth inning which saw three Redwood pitchers at work. Don Alvarado walked and stole second and Chuck Alvarez followed with a two-strike single. Exit Redwood starter Billy Poole. Enter reliever Barry Stockwell, who was greeted with a single by Bob Lopez and a double by Perry Hedin, scoring two runs. Exit Stockwell, enter Wilson. Wilson struck out his first batter then gave up a high fly out to Asay. Lopez headed for home and scored in a cloud of dust, under the relay throw from the outfield. And that was that.

Asay, who shut out Terra Linda, 2-0, earlier in the season wound up with a two-hitter and after the third inning allowed only one base runner on a walk.

Terra Linda was leading 2-1 going into the second inning when a king-size disaster struck. The Trojan pitchers couldn't get anybody out.

The Indians batted around, scored seven runs, including two on a double by Mike Biber, and the rest on two hit batsmen, a pair of errors, some wild throws and an infield out, a bases loaded walk, a wild pickoff attempt and a pair of other hits.

Starter Bruce Kilby, and a pair of relievers toiled in that inning with Jerry Goodrick finally retiring the side when it was much too late.

Goodrick got touched for two runs later in the game and only Dan Corona got through a 1 and ⅔ inning stint without damage.

Marin Catholic fell behind 3-1 against Novato with the Hornets getting a two-run single by Barry Berringer.

But the Wildcats came back with a three-run third inning with the big play a single and an error, scoring two runs with two out.

In came Brian King, Mr. Ever-Sharp of the Wildcats, to take over for starter Tom Schalich with one out in the fourth inning.

That was all for the Hornets as they got one hit off King, none after the fourth.

The Hornets wound up out-

JACK HANLEY

Casey Stengel Still Baseball Ambassador

NEW YORK — Casey Stengel still is with the Mets but in one of the anomalous jobs entitled vice president. Casey made an appearance this spring at St. Petersburg, Fla., spring training camp of the Mets, but that was the extent of the Ol' Perfesser's contact with the 1967 baseball season.

Stengel, at 75 going on 76, still is baseball's outstanding ambassador even though he now devotes his spare time to his bank in Glendale. He knows what's going on in both National and American Leagues. He knows that his hand-picked successor, Wes Westrum, is doing as good a job as anyone could with the Mets, excluding, of course, Casey himself.

Stengel would have had some bright remarks to offer when the Giants made their first 1967 visit to Shea Stadium. But he was on the West Coast, attending to banking, scouting for the Mets and doing a bit of public relations for them.

No One Can Match His Quotes

Westrum was most gracious in trying to provide baseball writers with readable quotes but no manager ever could match Stengel in that respect. Any baseball writer whoever talked even momentarily with Casey always came away with a laugh and a story.

Casey, prematurely forced into retirement by the Yankees in 1960 after leading them to 10 American League pennants, never referred much to the Yankees when he started a new career in 1961 with the Mets. And he seldom referred to his 14 years as a player beginning in 1912 with the Dodgers, later the Braves, Pirates and Giants.

Casey's anecdotes from 1961 on all pertained to the Mets and he spoke with warm affection about them. Hearing Casey tell it, the Mets were the greatest wonder team ever to occupy a major league cellar.

Those Trips Are Expensive

First time Casey brought his Mets to Candlestick Park in 1961, he interrupted baseball writers who were interviewing him and asked: "What kind of crowd can we expect?" The writers told Casey Candlestick would be sold out because he was in town.

"That's good," said Casey, "because I want to take a big check back to Mrs. (Joan) Payson. She's in Europe and those trips cost a lotta money."

A genius with words, Casey once broke up a Congressional investigation into baseball with his Stengelese. That was a number of years ago. But Casey's way with words still was as bright as sunshine last year when the All-Star game was played in blistering 106 degree heat at St. Louis' new ball park. Asked what he thought of the new park, Casey said: "It holds the heat good."

It Isn't The Same Without Casey

Any trip with the Giants into New York, their old home town, stirs oldtimers into a state of nostalgia. But, without Casey, it just isn't the same. Who, except Casey, would come up with quotes like these:

"The way he's hitting, I'd be better off if he was hurt." "He looks like the greatest hitter in the world until you play him." "He is a peculiar chap but has splendid ability." "He's got pearly white teeth, he can wiggle his ears and he can hit the curve ball."

Palmer Sizzles On Birdie Binge

HOUSTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer, golf's all-time money maker, isn't winning as much as he'd like to this year. Yet in 7 of the twelve pro tournaments he has finished fourth or better, pocketing $73,273.

He locked onto the lead in the rich, $115,000 Champions International yesterday, sizzling to a five-under-par 66 for a 134 total and a three-stroke lead. His nearest contender was young Frank Beard, alone in second place at 137.

"Palmer's off to his best start of any year," a PGA official said, noting that he had finished in the money in every tournament on the 1967 tour.

The ledger showed that Palmer had played 33 official rounds of golf this year. On 22 of those he posted rounds in the 60s, hardly surprising for the mighty Arnie, who has won $827,723, more than any other golfer, in 13 years as a professional.

Palmer has won the Los Angeles and Tucson opens this year. In addition, he has recorded one second, two ties for second, two thirds and a fourth.

"I'm not winning as much as I'd like to be. I've already lost one tournament I wanted to win . . . that's the Masters," said Arnold.

Palmer thrust himself into the limelight in the star - studded Houston field by mouting one of his typical birdie charges, using deft iron play for birdies on five of the last seven holes.

"My irons were pretty good," said Palmer. "They're the outstanding part of my game, if there's any outstanding part."

His birdie rampage began on No. 12 when he sank an 18-foot putt. He followed with birds on the next three holes—chipping to within eight inches on No. 13; eight feet on No. 14, using a three-iron, then two feet with a nine iron on No. 15. He dropped a 12-footer for his sixth birdie of the day.

Jack Nicklaus, who is having a bad year on the tour, suffered a frustrating two - stroke penalty along with PGA champ Al Geiberger and former U.S. open winner Cary Middlecoff for slow play.

The penalty, invoked by PGA tournament director Jack Tuthill, took the edge off a 69 Nicklaus shot to recoup from a disastrous 77 on the first day. As a result, Nicklaus' 148 barely made the 150 cut.

Geiberger had a 145, and Middlecoff a 149.

"They just stalled the field," Tuthill said later. "I hope they understand, but I don't know whether they do or not."

Nicklaus, Geiberger and Middlecoff, among the slowest and most deliberate golfers, toured the par-71 Cypress Creek course in four hours and 18 minutes. At one point, there was a half-hour, 2½-hole gap between the penalized threesome who started early, and the group in front.

Tam Tennis Team Defeats Redwood

And then there were two.

Tamalpais High School cleared up the traffic jam at the top spot in the Marin County Athletic League tennis race somewhat yesterday by handing contending Redwood a 4-1 loss in a showdown match at Tamalpais.

The Indians remain tied with San Rafael for the lead at 6-1 records but Redwood dropped to a 5-2 mark.

Tamalpais swept all the singles matches, including a 6-4, 3-6, 6-0 win by undefeated Terry Moor at the No. 3 spot.

Tamalpais 4, Redwood 1

Singles — Barry Brink (T) d. Steve McDonald (R), 6-0, 9-7; Andy Moffat (T) d. Dave Walter (R), 7-5, 6-2; Terry Moor (T) d. Ward Johnson (R), 6-4, 3-6, 6-0.

Doubles —Jim Randolph-Howie Ortman (T) d. Greg Leininger-Dave Slocum (R), 6-0, 8-10, 6-0; Doug Graham-Jeff Allen (R) d. John Cook-Robbie McCormick (T), 6-3, 6-4.

U.S. Auto Club Honors Andretti

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The United States Auto Club honored Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and its other 1966 champions last night at the annual awards dinner, a sort of race drivers' convention.

Andretti and his Brabham-Brawner Ford dominated the USAC big car circuit, winning eight of 15 events. The Italian-born driver also set qualifying records in the Indianapolis 500-mile race but his engine failed while he was leading.

Other USAC champions honored were Roger McCluskey, Tucson, Ariz., sprint cars; Mike McGreevy, Hayward, Calif., compact sprint (midgets), and Norm Nelson, Racine, Wis., stocks.

NIXES CONTRACT

Mira Will Play Out His Option

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — San Francisco 49er quarterback George Mira, saying he was tired of laboring in the shadow of John Brodie, refused yesterdayl to sign a new two-year contract.

Mira said he would honor his commitment to play next season at San Francisco, but would play out his option without a contract at a 10 per cent cut in salary.

The former University of Miami star said, "My plan now is to play out my option next season."

Mira told 49ers General Manager Lou Spadia, "I want to play. If you don't want me, trade me. Let me get somewhere where I can play."

Mira said he did not ask for more money when Spadia flew here to sign him. "I just tried to get some assurance that they planned to use me more next season," Mira said.

Mira said Spadia indicated the 49ers — surfeited with quarterbacks — had no intention of trading him and planned to go with Brodie as their No. 1 starter in the fall .

After playing the season without a contract he could negotiate with other National Football League teams but could not sign with the AFL.

San Francisco recently signed Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier.

Laguna Seca Mark Broken In Tuneup For Big Race

MONTEREY (UPI) — Camaros take on Mustangs and Darts for the first time today in a special Pro Sedan race at Laguna Seca while the purists among the fans on the scene for the big weekend mark time until tomorrow afternoon for the 152-mile United States Road Racing Championship.

The Laguna Seca USRRC race is the third of eight on the schedule to decide the 1967 racing championship. Thus far, young Mark Donohue of Stony Brook, N.Y., holds a commanding lead with 18 points off back-to-back victories at Las Vegas and Riverside.

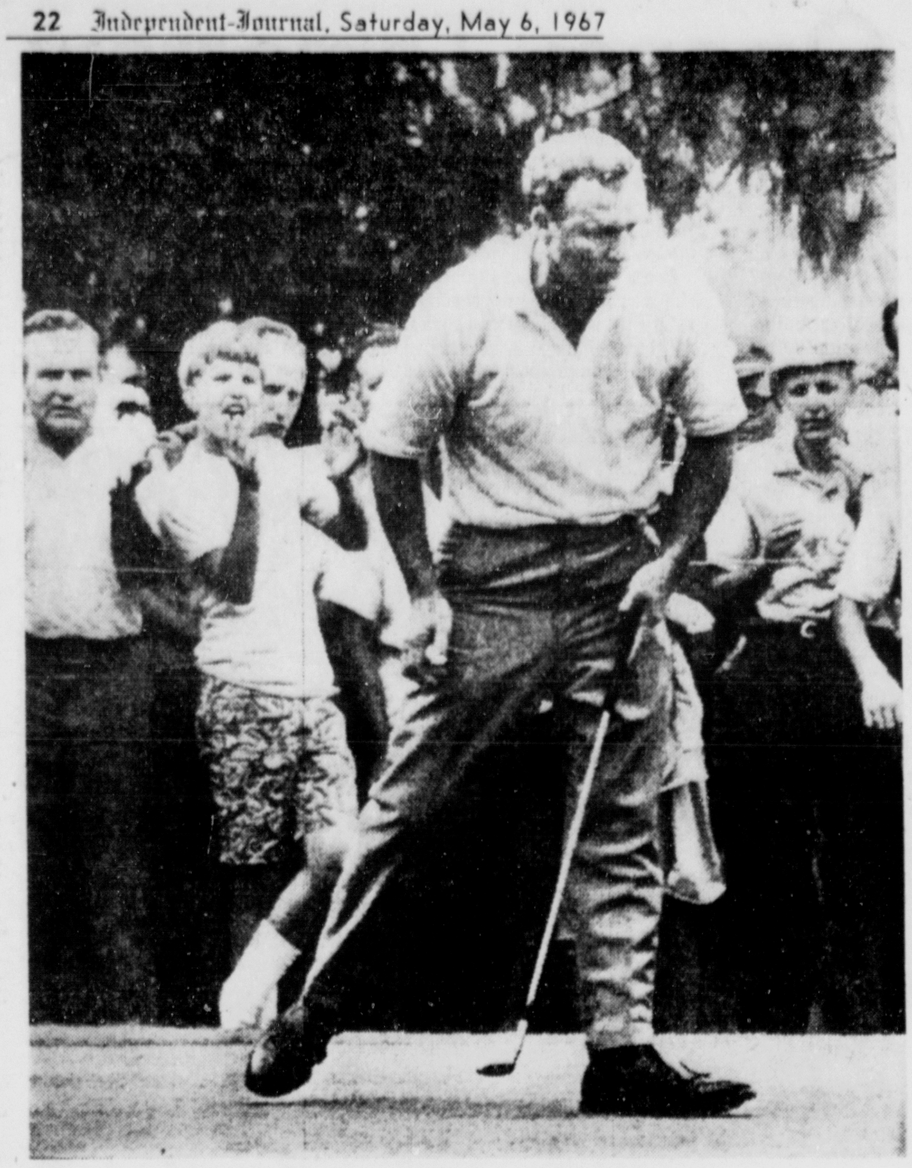
Donohue was among three drivers who yesterday broke Hap Sharpe's lap record of 1:07.4 in time trials. Donohue was clocked in 1:07.1 in his Lola Chevy for third best time overall.

The fastest clocking was turned in by George Follmer of Arcadia, in a Lola T71, as he covered the 1.9 mile nine-turn course in 1:06.2. Lothar Motschenbacher of Beverly Hills, in a McLaren Mark II, was second in 1:06.5.

Additional time has been allotted for tomorrow morning for those drivers among the starting field of 36 who wish to take another shot in trial runs. It appeared most unlikely that yesterday's top three would take advantage of that opportunity.

Yesterday's trials went off without mishap, although Maston Gregory, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., and now of Paris, France, almost flipped over in his McClaren Elva Mark III during his run. However, Gregory kept his little car on the course and completed the run in 1:08.1 to place ninth.

His car sustained some damage to its underpinnings but Gregory said the vehicle should be all right by race time Sunday.



THE BIRDIE HUNTER

Arnold Palmer pats his birdie putt on the 14th hole along with some body English during the second round of the Houston Champions International Golf Tournament yesterday. That birdie fell in for Arnie as he fired a surging 66 to take over the second-day tourney lead with a record-breaking 134.

NCAA Studies Grid Playoff Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association kicked around yesterday the possibility of a collegiate football national championship playoff.

Study of such a plan was authorized by the NCAA's executive committee, which directed Marcus L. Plant, Michigan, to appoint a study committee to determine the merits of a postseason playoff.

Plant, president of the NCAA, said he would name a representative committee as soon as possible. However, the full NCAA convention must certify such a plan and, if approved, it could not go into operation until 1968.

Such a plan probably would involve eight teams in a three-week series ending in a nationally televised championship game.

Such a move could cut into the number of postseason bowl games. The NCAA Council might move to limit the number of bowl games if the playoff system is agreed upon.

Meanwhile, the policy-making council is expected to act upon code violations, including the case of the Illinois slush fund, before adjourning tomorrow.

In other actions, the executive committee revised the format of the gymnastic championships and directed that the trampoline event be abolished in the interest of safety.

Such action was recommended by gymnastic coaches because of an injury which ended the athletic career of Brian Sternberg, University of Washington pole-vaulter.

The field for NCAA gymnastic finals now will include one team instead of four and four individuals instead of eight who qualify from four regional meets.

Redwood Clinches Marin Track Flag

Redwood High School has officially annexed the dual meet title of the Marin County Athletic League track and field season.

The Giants did it yesterday by thumping Drake, 95½-31½, which surprised no one but was nevertheless something of an eccentric meet.

In another oddball meet, San Rafael won the battle of the have-nots by downing Marin Catholic, 83-39, and Tamalpais defeated Novato.

Although Redwood won its sixth dual meet without a loss, there were a few things to write home about.

Craig Scott, although he didn't have to contend with Drake's Jerry Sprout, still set a Redwood school mark of 154 feet, 7 inches in the discus, breaking his own mark of 151-2, set earlier in the season.

Greg Sullivan, a converted miler, left Redwood Coach Tony Bailey in a quandary on how to use him in the MCAL meet by running a smooth 4:38.8. Sullivan is the Giants' regular two-miler.

Jeff Hicks, the defending MCAL pole vault champion, and record meet record holder, couldn't get past 12 feet and was beaten by Drake's Dan Murphy, who did clear 12 feet.

And Jerry Stevens was a double winner for the third straight time for the Giants, winning the 440 and 880.

At San Rafael, the Bulldogs won all three meets over the ill-fated Wildcats, leaving Marin Catholic in the cellar three times over with winless slates.

Most of the Class B times and distances were nearly as good, sometimes better than the varsity efforts. Paul Leete, however, who had a 6-2½ jump earlier in the week, won the high jump for San Rafael with a 5-11 leap, second best in the county and making him a sure threat for the MCAL title in that department.

Girvin Cracks Mark In Drake Swim Meet

Bob Girvin tried his hand at the 400-meter freestyle at Drake High School yesterday, and did he send up smoke bubbles!

Girvin, who can do quite a few things as a swimmer, ripped teammate Bob Edmands' Drake record and then some as he churned through the Drake course in 4:13.3, chopping nearly nine seconds off the old mark of 4:22.2 set by Edmands earlier in the season.

That was the highlight of yesterday's three-meet slate in the Marin County Athletic League swim race, which saw the three teams in the run for the money scoring easy victories.

Drake thumped Novato with Girvin winning a pair of events, Paul Sagues taking two and Edmands two to go with another 100 breaststroke victory by John Skaer. Final score: 61-34.

Terra Linda, with a cold eye on next Tuesday's showdown meet with the Pirates, dunked winless San Rafael, 66½ to 27½ as Paul Cole hit a school record in the 200 freestyle with a 1:59.1 mark while Jeff Brody set one in the 100 back with a 1:01.1 time.

Tamalpais, which will be a big Terra Linda fan Tuesday, rolled past Redwood, 69-31 with the Averill boys, Bruce and Craig, and Malcom Foster leading the way.

That leaves Drake still ahead at 8-1 with Tamalpais and Terra Linda panting close behind at 7-2. The Indians can't do a thing about it but pray, but the Trojans will have the last shot at the Pirates.

ALBANY — Tout Nagea, $11.60, beat Los Alamitos in the feature race at Golden Gate Fields.

Cost of Cincy Baseball Park Going Up, Up, Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — The expected cost of building Cincinnati's riverfront sports stadium has risen almost $4 million since last July and now stands at $40,179,366, City Manager William C. Wichman said yesterday.

Wichman told the City Council's finance and stadium committees that he favors issuing $42 million worth of revenue bonds to finance the stadium that would serve as home for the Cincinnati Reds and a professional football team.

The awarding of contracts for the stadium has been set for July. It is expected to be completed by the spring of 1969 at the latest.

Most of the higher estimate is due to higher construction costs. Wichman said these will have increased by about 10 per cent between July, 1966, and July, 1967, and added that current labor negotiations may result in still higher costs.

A Baseball Clan

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Former major league baseball player Del Wilber, his wife, Taffy, and their son, Del Jr., are on the payroll of different baseball clubs. Papa Wilber is a scout for the Minnesota Twins of the American League. Mama Wilber was recently appointed by Stan Musial, general nanager of the St. Louis Cardinals, as coordinator of special events and activities involving women and young baseball fans. Son Del has signed to play with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Wins Handball Title

MONTREAL (AP) — American champion Paul Heber of San Francisco won the Canadian four-wall handball title Friday by defeating Bill Yambrick of St. Paul, 21-19, 21-18.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad—Carl Baker, 195, Trinidad, knocked out Aaron Breasley, 188½, Miami, Fla., in the second round.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

The Editor's Notebook

Institute On The Family Can Greatly Help Society

MANY OF SOCIETY'S present-day ills are traceable to a break-down of the family structure.

Juvenile delinquency and, later, adult crimes, are often traceable to maladjusted home life.

As a result, we hear it said on every side that we need to restore strength to the family as a social institution.

There is much talk, but up to now there has been little action. Our social service agencies deplore the situation but have had comparatively little success in dealing with it.

Into this vacuum comes Marin's "Institute on the Family."

When it was launched less than a year ago, its announced goals were three: "To study some of the perplexing problems of modern family life" "to begin differentiating between different helping processes," and "offer advanced post graduate work to professionals."

THE INSTITUTE ON THE FAMILY has not yet begun to reach its full potential. It has been hampered by lack of funds. It appears to be the kind of an undertaking worthy of substantial support by one of our great eleemosynary foundations. But so far none has come forward to help.

It isn't likely to get local volunteer assistance without considerable extra effort. The Institute is a creature of the Family Service Agency of Marin which itself needs all the funds it can get locally, from United Crusade and contributions from the public. The parent organization is not likely in the foreseeable future to have much to spare for significant support of the Institute.

EVEN ON THE RESTRICTED scale of its activities so far, the Institute has made a mark—a contribution to the treatment of people burdened with personal problems.

Traditional, conventional family service counseling has been on an individual basis. That is, each person is counseled separately.

The Institute's new approach is basically quite simple It counsels the family as a group, altogether at once so to speak.

Already there are indications that some individual, personal problems are solved more effectively in family group counseling than in counseling only with the burdened person alone.

You might call it one of the newest breakthroughs on the mental health front.

AS ITS STATEMENT of purposes indicates, the Institute is ready (given adequate financing to launch its program full-scale) to (1) study further how this new family group counseling approach can be improved and made more effective, and (2) train professionals to utilize the newly developed approaches and techniques.

NICHOLAS M. SUNTZEFF, executive director of both the Family Service Agency and the Institute on the Family, is now being assisted in Institute operations by Jack D. Stocking, former businessman-turned-clergyman-turned professional counselor.

An impressive staff and faculty have been assembled. Policy is set by the board of directors which also serves the Family Service Agency.

Only $15,000 will "put the show on the read" for the last year, says Stocking, but so far he has had little success in finding such support.

But the support will be forthcoming from somewhere, somehow. The Institute's work so far has been too significant, too important to be abandoned.

It can well be part of the beginning of a nationwide "new era" in counseling, bringing the talents of psychologist, social worker, psychiatrist, minister and guidance counselor to bear in family group situations.

The possibilities of dramatic successes are too great to ignore.

One of these days some benevolent foundation will recognize that the Institute on the Family, right here in Marin, is doing something in a field where activity heretofore has been limited mostly to talk.

When that day comes, Marin's Institute may "show the way" to the rest of the country.

—Jack Craemer

A Festival Of Wildflowers

Lilac, mustard, tidy tips, lupine, buttercups, poppies—all have bloomed unusually well this wet spring, and some are continuing to brighten the green hills of Marin with a broad spectrum of colors.

April showers and all that . . .

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Adolph Eberhart, first mayor of Mill Valley, who became 100 years oid this week. He lived in Mill Valley for more than 50 years before moving to Kentfield last year.

A BOUQUET to Russell Taylor of Mill Valley, who won a $350 prize in a nationwide competition sponsored by the Santa Barbara chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

A BOUQUET to Dr. Gurdon C. Oxtoby, dean at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, who will retire next month after 38 years on the seminary faculty. He has lived at the seminary for 54 of his 65 years.

BRICKBATS to Marin Catholic High School students who persist in crossing busy Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the morning commute hour right in front of the school where there is NO crosswalk. They apparently do not care enough about their own safety to walk a short block to the costly pedestrian overpass provided for their safety at taxpayers' expense. BOUQUETS to those students who do use the overpass; they set a good example for the younger children at Wolfe Grade School next door.

BOUQUETS to Marin's Belvedere for coming to the aid of Belvidere, Ill., which suffered death and destruction from a tornado last month. Marin's Belvedere organized a committee to work with the Red Cross in aiding their stricken "almost namesake" city in Illinois.

A BOUQUET to Virginia Stewart, who resigned after 30 years as San Anselmo librarian.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING COURTEOUS

Courtesy is no small part of the responsibilities that confront officers of the law.

According to the FBI Bulletin, "Courtesy is definitely an integral and vital tool in obtaining for the law enforcement profession the acceptance and respect of the public which are so essential."

Then the Bulletin continued: "Law enforcement officers, from the patrolmen on the beat to the highest executives, should have a sound, basic knowledge of the value of courtesy."

Show everyone without exception the same consideration that you expect for yourself. Whether at home, on the bus, shopping, at work, or in any other setting you have countless opportunities to be thoughtful, kind and gracious, rather than impersonal unpleasant or overbearing.

True politeness is based on recognition of the divine image in every man. By being courteous, you may open doors that might otherwise remain locked. You can do much to "put love where there is no love."

"Kindness is like a garden of blessings."
(Sirach 40:17)

May I manifest Your love, O Lord, by being courteous to others.

World War II's Napalm 'Clean'?

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Re atrocities and our use of napalm in Viet-Nam: Aside from the fact that neither Mrs. Brown nor Mr. Ackerman (in their letters to the I. J. of May 1) makes any reference whatsoever to the acts of calculated terrorism perpetrated by the V. C. (an omission which itself speaks volumes), can they offer any evidence that they were equally vocal in their protests of our use of napalm and incendiaries in World War II? Or was that "different"—a "clean" war, perhaps?

On the other hand, if the 10 million or so who served in the armed forces during World War II has been "REAL Americans" like Phil Drath (i.e., had refused to fight as a matter of principle, thereby leaving the fascists free to operate their gas ovens when and where they pleased), where would Mrs. Brown and Mr. Ackerman be today?

Gilmartin Column Desecrates Goals

Editor, Independent-Journal:

For more than 40 years, sports have been a very important part of my life as a participant, teacher, coach, and spectator. During that time I have tried to develop within myself and the boys in my charge, a sense of fair play, sportsmanship, individual and team responsibility and a respect for the dignity of each individual athlete. These worthwhile goals, I feel, were desecrated by Jim Gilmartin in his Friday column, April 28.

A boy who participates in tennis, golf, basketball, wrestling, football, what-have-you, becomes an athlete when the time, energy and spirit he has devoted to learning his sport, suddenly blossom forth into skill and talent that can be appreciated by his opponents and the public. This appreciation is irrespective of his race, religion, politics, what he wears or how long his hair is. Respect follows appreciation when the athlete shows his sense of fair play, sportsmanship and respect for the dignity of his opponent in the arena of competition.

In his column, Mr. Gilmartin says nothing about the skill or talent of the deposed player nor does he mention anything about the spirit in which this boy played. "Longhair" is no more synonomous with the word "punk" than "clean-cut" is with "wholesomeness." Punks or wholesome people are or should be recognized as such by their actions rather than by an assumed imagery. Nor is it fair to equate this modern hair style with sissified male behavior. History-book pictures of real hero-type MEN, show that there is nothing inherently feminine about men who have long hair.

There are many facets to this coach-athlete relationship which would merit a full, honest and open discussion among coaches, athletes, and the general public. Perhaps new or revised guide lines are needed. I think so.

At any rate the scathing sarcasm and illogical generalizations written by Jim Gilmartin were in very poor taste.

Few Questions For Freedom Marchers

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Please stop a moment. Oh, Quaker Pacifist! May I have your attention? Before you continue with your painted signs, may I ask you a few questions?

How many of you were born of immigrant parents—Italian, Irish, Spanish or French? Were your fathers born in foreign lands? Did they come here, penniless, to a country foreign to them? Was in their first glimpses of America, the Stature of Liberty? Did it mean anything to them? Does it mean anything to you?

Do you believe that Communist countries would leave our country as it is now? If all of Asia were in the hands of the Comunists, how long do you honestly believe you'ld not be "ducking" their napalm bombs?

Phil Drath, did you stay to see what happened to the $10,000 worth of supplies you personally and with so much fan fare delivered to North Vietnam? Did you? Are you sure?

How many countries could you have a Peace March in today without being jailed for treason?

I'm confused, and sick at heart. My husband and brother fought on the beaches of the Pacific in World War II. I have a brother-in-law who survived the Death March of Baatan! Do you even know what that was? Do you care? My younger brother, a helicopter pilot will spend the last part of his 'hitch" in the Air Force in Vietnam. My son is in the Navy. Is what they fought for and are fighting for in vain?

Oh, Freedom Marchers! Oh, Teen Ager! Where were your male relatives during the last wars? Could you look them in the eye? Are you proud of yourself? JUST WHAT DOES BEING AN AMERICAN MEAN TO YOU?

Slide Caused Broken Drain

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This is in regard to the article which appeared in the April 25, 1967, edition of your paper concerning the landslide on the Noel property at 34 Reed Ranch Road, Tiburon. I was mistakenly quoted as saying that the storm drain on Reed Ranch Road caused much of the trouble. What I did say was, there was so little information developed on the nature of the slide that it was difficult to determine the effect of the broken storm drain. I further stated that the broken storm drain's effect could range from none at all to a substantial amount.

I will be most apreciative if you will publish this correction in order that the citizens of Tiburon may be correctly informed of statements made by the city staff concerning this most unfortunate situation.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Bravo for Mr. Theron Newell's column of April 18 regarding Death Penalty, Hippies, and Drath.

After having been subjected to the pseudo-liberal columnists in all of the major Bay Area newspapers for many years, it was a real pleasure to read Mr. Newell's forthright thoughts on these subjects.

We are looking forward to more straight talk in his columns.

Outsiders Hasty, Uninformed If They Call Reagan A Failure

SACRAMENTO — Ronald Reagan, as governor, looks better closeup than at a distance.

The facts just do not support the impression which many east of the Rockies seem to have, that Reagan is some kind of conservative kook who is out to dismantle the government of the most populous state in the nation and keep California's young people from getting an education.

I do not conclude that Reagan will turn out to be a distinguished governor — or, in the end, even an effective governor; it is too soon to know.

BUT I HAVE become convinced that his first four months in office show:

That his efforts to economize do not make him a reactionary bogyman.

That the substance of what he is trying to achieve— less expensive, more efficient government which, he avows, "will never put dollars ahead of people" — is entirely reasonable.

That Reagan is quite aware that he has made political and tactical blunders which have got him into hot water— and he is learning from them.

That it is simply uninformed to dismiss Reagan as an actor playing governor and premature to guess how he is going to look a year from now.

SUCH FACTS as the following about the Reagan record seem little known outside of California and they deserve to be better understood:

Reagan's top-level appointments reflect no reactionary mold. He is putting together a team of able administrators, some outstanding.

He has retained three of Gov. Pat Brown's best men, named a Democrat head of the Water Resources Board because he was the most qualified, put a dedicated conservationist in charge of natural resources, placed a farm expert with Washington experience in the Eisenhower administration in charge of California agriculturre, and appointed a Negro to run veterans' affairs.

REAGAN BEGAN his administration by trimming the burgeoning state budget by $127,000,000 — more than half of what he hoped to save.

He has faced up to the necessity of some increase in sales and income taxes to cope with a deficit not of his own making and to give some relief to excessibely high property taxes.

He has shown that he is not afraid to tread on some toes, that he can make decisions and stand behind them, that he intends to redeem his campaign promises. He is proving in practice that the idea he is an empty-headed actor reading somebody else's script is bunk.

BUT TAKE the Reagan blunders. He has made his share, perhaps more. However, everything didn't go smoothly in the early months of the Warren or Brown administrations.

Reagan is being too hastily judged, not on the basis of what he is seeking to achieve but on the basis of a few tactical mistakes.

Example: he did not initiate the firing of university president Clark Kerr, nor did he act to precipitate it. But because Reagan had been critical of Kerr's management at Berkeley, many news stories made it appear that he pushed the Board of Regents into the firing. Untrue.

EXAMPLE: Reagan never presented any dogmatic, take-it-or-leave-it proposal to the Regents on student tuition. He asked them to explore increasing student fees and other means of meeting university costs. Then his critics leaked half the story to the press.

Example: Reagan certainly bungled his plan to cut the number of workers in mental hospitals in light of the reduction in the number of patients. He went too far too fast and had to retreat, he did.

I AM NOT saying that Reagan has landed securely on his feet. But the facts certainly do not justify suggesting that he has fallen on his face. He hasn't.

Why Should War Hurt Civil Rights?

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

The fighting in Vietnam has resulted in a war of words here at home between the "hawks," who favor stronger military action, and the "doves," who favor a negotiated settlement of the war, the sooner the better.

CAUGHT BETWEEN these groups is the struggle for civil rights for all Americans. Both the hawks and the doves, for different reasons, say we can't fight a war in Vietnam and carry on a war against poverty here at home.

Both sides are wrong in this matter. Many hawks seem to feel that the war must get top priority and that domestic issues like ending proverty will have to wait, since we can't afford the costs of both wars. But we can. The federal programs labelled "war on poverty" are costing less than the farm subsidy program, the proposed supersonic airplane, or the space program. For every dollar spent to help someone out of poverty, we spend almost $4 to put a man on the moon.

SO WE CAN AFFORD both wars if we spend more wisely on those programs which will pay off by getting people jobs and helping them become tax producers instead of tax consumers, instead of spending on prgrams which should have lower priority because they are less important.

Besides, we have the resources to raise more money for necessary programs. Nobody likes to have his taxes raised, but sometimes it is essential for the good of all. Americans are taxed less than any othe industrial country.

The doves would probably agree with this, but many of them say that the war on poverty could get the money now spent on the war in Vietnam, estimated at $24 billion this year. This is unrealistic. There is no guarantee that this money would go to the war on poverty, in fact, judging from recent experience, it is highly unlikely.

ENDING THE WAR in Vietnam won't mean that the money won't be spent on other foreign needs. Billions will have to go to Vietnam to repair the damage done to that war-torn country and billions more will have to go toward bolstering the poor nations of Asia, Africa, and Latin-America to help end conditions which make them vulnerable to social upheavals. Like it or not, America is the prime power in the world today and it must bear the costs which go with the responsibilities of its position. It is highly unrealistic to expect this situation to change in the near future or to expect national priorities to shift overnight.

BUT WHY DO both sides put so much stress on money? This nation can do much to advance the civil rights of its citizens without spending one cent.

Look at the current civil rights proposals to end discrimination in housing. An open occupancy policy would give Negroes the right to live wherever their incomes and desires take them, and it would be a giant step toward ending the current practice of forcing Negro citizens into overcrowded, overpriced ghettos. This is not a spending proposal, it is a human rights proposal. This does not cost money.

Thieves Take Model Home's Washer-Drier

Someone pried open the doors on a Stoneridge model home at San Marin and San Mateo drives in Novato and took a washer and dryer valued at $350, Amber E. Atchley of Sunset International Pertoleum Corp. reported Thursday to police.

The burglary occurred between 4:45 p.m. Wednesday and last evening, police reported.

Program Cuts Before Trustees

A list of programs that may be cut because of a deficit budget for next fiscal year will be considered Monday by Mill Valley School District trustees at 8 p.m. today at Edna Maguire School.

The preliminary budget shows a deficit of approximately $15,000 and includes no funds for reserves or for $90,000 in salary increases called for by the district's policy.

Also on the agenda is a progress report by district architects planning a "middle school" at Project 17, and improvements to existing schools. A $3.5 million bond measure to finance the new school and improvements will be voted upon June 13.

Collision Story Has Its Autos Reversed

The cars were reversed in the report of a San Anselmo traffic accident in the Independent-Journal Monday.

A car driven by Kent D. English, 18, of 145 Piper Court, Fairfax, hit the rear of one driven by Daniel R. Jackson, 26, of 215 Bayview Street, Apt. 226, San Rafael, not the reverse as first reported, according to San Anselmo police. Jackson suffered minor injury.

Poppy Sale Set

Auxiliaries of American Legion posts will sell poppies in Marin County communities May 26 and 27, reported Ethel Greenwood of San Anselmo, auxiliary fifth district president. The days have been declared "Memorial Poppy Days" by the county board of supervisors.

Center Planning Summer Camps

Marin Jewish Community Center has announced it is accepting registration of boys and girls from kindergarten through sixth grade to attend its Camp Rafa-El summer day camp at the center, 200 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The three to nine weeks of activities will begin June 27 and meet Mondays through Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Activities will include sports, nature study, crafts, hiking, camping and swimming.

Second through sixth graders participating in a six-week program may join the final event: a four-day, 25-mile hike in August beginning at Muir Woods and following Mount Tamalpais trails to Lagunitas Lake.

Library Plan Names Checked

Sausalito Voters League, seeking a referendum on the city council's plan to finance a waterfront library through lease-purchase, Thursday night found that only 84 of 771 signatures on petitions to force the referendum failed to include full names and addresses.

Chairman W. Bruce Shafer said the incomplete signatures were returned to circulators for completion. Forty-two 20-line petitions still are in circulation, he said. About 300 signatures are needed to force a referendum.

Petitions will be filed with the city clerk Monday at 4 p.m., Shafer said.

$2,500 Peacock Gap Burglary

Thieves carted off a mink stole, jewelry and two radios worth a total of more than $2,500 Thursday from the home of shoe store owner Manuel S. Jacobs at 119 Peacock Drive, Peacock Gap, San Rafael police reported.

Entry was gained by prying a door open with a screwdriver, officers said.

Jacobs and his wife, Rose, returned from the opening of a new store in San Francisco at 10:15 p.m. to find the house ransacked. Missing, they said, were a $1,000 mink stole, a pin with 18 diamonds, an aquamarine ring, two transistor radios worth $250, and a $600 string of cultured pearls.

MORE AND MORE, and particularly in the San Rafael City Schools, parents are entering the classrooms to contribute their skills to the education of children. San Rafael Parents In The Classrooms

The schools have discovered unmined gold in their communities.

This rich vein being tapped by the San Rafael City Schools, and by more and more districts across the country, consists of the talents and the energies of skilled lay people outside the faculties — many of them parents of the students.

More and more, according to Dr. William C. Jordan, assistant superintendent of the San Rafael City Schools' elementary division, schools are coming to realize that in virtually every neighborhood there are men and women of special abilities and enthusiasms who can contribute substantially to the educative process.

Thus a financier appears before junior high school students to discuss our monetary system, a holder of a graduate degree in chemical engineering takes under his wing a small group of youngsters showing a special aptitude in mathematics, an accomplished poet teaches creative writing, volunteers contribute materially to the operation of school libraries.

DR. JORDAN PUTS it this way:

"The two major ingredients of any community are the home and the school. Indeed, it could be said that in reality the home and school are one institution, the school being simply an extension of the many homes that surround it.

"And the teacher, of course,is an extension of the family."

The recognition of this close and natural relationship serves to point out the artificiality of barriers between school and home, and to encourage the closest kind of cooperation including bringing the layman into the very classroom processes.

THIS, SAYS DR. Jordan, is what is taking place more and more as the schools invite talented parents to "return to school" and share their particular skills and experience with the pupils.

The result is a widening of the educational horizons of the students. It is often also a blessing for the volunteers from the community, many of whom have felt stifled by their inability to share their special genius and interests with others.

Ths San Rafael schools began this kind of thing slowly, Dr. Jordan says. Then flushed with initial success and with growing confidence they have been moving ahead at an accelerated pace in recent years.

PATIENCE, practice and understanding have served to eliminate the shyness that once made the parent hesitant to enter the classroom, or the principal and teacher reluctant to issue the invitation.

Files of so-called "resource people" in the community are being used more and more.

The schools, too, gain from this arrangement, Dr. Jordan says.

"Teachers have found that the best source of community support lies not in the 'happy student' alone, but also in the fully informed parent group that knows from actual experience what is happening in our schools," he explains.

A KNOWLEDGEABLE parent might acquire his information in a parent-teacher conference where the child is the hub of the meeting.

But even better fitted to understand and evaluate the schools is the parent who has served as a participant in school system activities.

This close contact is especially important, Dr. Jordan says, at a time when rapid changes in technology, sociological theories and cultural patterns have produced new approaches to learning that are revitalizing the patterns of classroom instruction.

THESE NEWLY-emerged ideas and their implementation are dislocating old theories and installing new practices in the school, just as they are in the home and in business and industry.

Because the school is center stage in time of progress, it can also be the nucleus of controversy about theory or method. The parent-volunteer can make a major contribution toward understanding and a lessening of tensions and conflict.

Teachers, too, have overcome the tendency to be shy or fearful of parents that existed among some of them, Dr. Jordan says. A common interest in the child has pulled home and school together.

SUCH BENEFICIAL results have caused the San Rafael City elementary schools to embark upon a further expansion of parent-teacher activity.

Dr. Jordan can point to ex-

"Why Can't My Raincoat Be Cleaned?"

Rainwear, like any other fabric which has been soiled too long, is difficult if not impossible to clean. We are prone to neglect having our rainwear cleaned because we wear it less often. When the soil becomes deeply embedded in the fabric, drycleaning may not remove it. If your cleaner has to resort to wet-cleaning, and the fabric has not been pre-shrunk, shrinkage could occur.

Remember, too, that many of the water repellents used on rainwear fabrics today are removed by either drycleaning or wet-cleaning. To restore the original finish and to give you adequate protection against rain, have your drycleaner re-treat rainwear after cleaning.

So, Mrs. A.D.B., have your rainwear cleaned frequently, before the soil becomes embedded and have your garment re-treated for water repellence after cleaning.

amples in each of the schools under his jurisdiction of how this parent-and -school cooperative spirit is working to the advantage of San Rafael children.

At Bahia Vista School, the public education committee of American Institute of Architects is developing an experimental unit on "architecture and the environment." The idea is to see if the schools in the exploration of "Structures of Civilization" cannot teach and encourage children to open their eyes to their environment, observing their surroundings and adapting it to their needs.

AT DAVIDSON Junior High School the staff has brought the community relationship program to a high plane over a period of six years. This academic year has seen more than 30 experts visit Davidson to contribute to the education of the students.

For instance, Fred Enemark, executive vice president of Marin County Savings and Loan, appeared to explain how cash flows through the economic veins of the country. He left the students with a better grasp of what money can do, and of the purposes of our banking institutions.

Many parents are active at Coleman School. For instance, library volunteers have helped to make the school library something more than a mere depository of books. It has become the teaching-learning center of the school.

IN ADDITION to books, pictures, models, electric gear, magazines, reference material, film strips and much more are all offered at this center.

With only part-time library instructors and part-time library clerks available from the regular staff, volunteer parents, helping before school, at noon and after school, have carried a major portion of the work burden in keeping the library at Coleman — and in other San Rafael schools — in operation.

At Gallinas School, volunteer mothers, using five pianos on loan from Sherman-Clay, use a group instruction procedure to help determine whether a youngster has sufficient ability to warrant the further expenditure of time, effort and money in studying the piano.

AT GLENWOOD School, the adult Great Books program has its counterpart with 32 students taking part in Junior Great Books sessions.

Split into two sections, the group meets on alternate weeks to review the "top" literature for young people. The program is organized, and the leaders carefully trained. Students, Dr. Jordan says, profit immeasurably from the perceptive discussions of ideas that result.

The demanding course is limited to those students capable of advanced potential. Participants are recommended by the teachers of the various intermediate grades.

HARTZELL SCHOOL offers an example of parent cooperation in a physical education program.

The state has initiated a physical fitness testing project requiring bookkeeping that could be staggering in its consumption of time. But a parent, Mrs. C. F. Stahl, a physical education major, is coordinating the program, thus relieving teachers of the chore.

At Laurel Dell Intermediate School, an advanced mathematics class of fourth and fifth graders is in full swing. A parent holding a degree in graduate chemical engineering, Mrs. Irene Croft, is involved with a small group of students extremely capable in this specialized field. At present they are dealing with "the theory and the concept of limits via algebraic and geometrical models."

MRS. CROFT, planning a future as a teacher, spends one hour a week with the students from her own studies, and says: "They really keep me alert."

Prime-O-Tec, the neurological impress method of bolstering the reading process, has been brought to peak use by San Rafael's primary teachers. For it, stories must be taped to be read to pupils on earphones while they follow in the books. This requires a great deal of teacher time. At MacPhail School, a parent, Raymond Norris, retired from the armed services, has volunteered to build a library of good literature on tapes for use of all MacPhail teachers.

The process, he admits, wasn't easy for him at the outset.

"I HAD TO learn to speak the king's English all over again," he told the teachers, adding that he found himself listening to the playback and discovering that his articulation needed sharpening.

A side benefit, Dr. Jordan says, was that the primary children seemed to enjoy particularly listening to a man's voice.

At San Pedro School, a nongraded program is under way. This organizational device is designed to group students of like ability to encourage and stimulate their progress.

ONE OF THE top fourth grade reading groups numbers some 40 pupils. To diversify approaches to reading, Irving F. Blabon, the fourth grade teacher, gave each student a paperback book with instructions to read it at home. In the meantime, some parents were drafted secretly to read the same book.

Then, on a given morning with the students assembled, the parents arrived —and they and the boys and girls carried on a spirited book discussion.

The parents, Mrs. C. O. Carlson and Mrs. Herbert Walton, the latter also a teacher, expressed themselves as amazed by the grasp of the students as they reviewed Elizabeth Enright's "The Saturdays."

"I DIDN'T realize the latent ability of these children, nor their wide vocabulary," Mrs. Walton confessed.

A task force of art specialists has been visiting classrooms to develop in the children a sense of art appreciation beyond the regular course of study. The work has been carried on in conjunction with the Marin Museum Association, and has centered around "the great artistic contributions throughout the ages."

Many mothers, some of them gifted artists, have found a sense of satisfaction from sharing their interests and expertise with the students.

AT SHORT School, Mrs Arthur McCurdy and Mrs. John Castle have pointed out the criteria for true art in "color, line, texture, space, form and emphasis." Both have worked as volunteers with children in Thelma Preston's fourth grade class.

Eighth grade teacher Val Travaglini at Santa Venetia School, teaching history and civics, arrived at "the patent process." From the community came Robert Gately, an inventor who developed a portable polygraph device. Gately set up a display outlining the procedures a person follows in applying for a patent.

A combination second and third grade class unit at Sun Valley is called "Dad is Important." The school had found, to its surprise, that many boys and girls did not know what their fathers did for a living. The unit has encouraged fathers to come to the school to explain their occupations.

SEVEN — INCLUDING two firemen, a landscape architect, San Rafael Mayor Paul Bettini, a college professor of television, a Montgomery Ward operations manager — have, so far, appeared before the class to explain in detail what they do at work.

Study trips to the fathers' business addresses, including a visit to San Francisco State College's television station, have further enlivened the project.

At West End School, Mrs. Warren Marcus, a recognized poet, has for two years been teaching the children the creative and imaginative use of the English language. School newspapers have provided an avenue by which much of this student material has reached the outside community.

MARIN'S MRS. Zelpha Kentley Snyder, one of the country's most successful writers of children's books, learned that fifth graders in Hillis Newcomb's class at Gallinas were reading four of her recent titles. She visited them in their school to discuss writing, plotting and the rewards and difficulties of authorship.

Her book "The Egypt Game" won the Herald-Tribune Award.

Dr. Jordan says San Rafael schools are receptive to all parents and other citizens who feel they have a skill, ability or hobby that could contribute to the education of elementary school students.

TEACHERS, HE assures them, will not regard them as interlopers.

Indeed, principals and teachers will work enthusiastically with the volun-

Talent and enthuisiasm are two very precious commodities that, Dr. Jordan says, the schools cannot afford to overlook or permit to go to waste.

Busy Life Of Tiburon's Margot Jones

An Entertainer, Teacher And Now A Choreographer

By DON KEOWN

There's no better therapy for the nervous or those afflicted with an inferiority complex than dancing, believes Tiburon's Margot Jones, a professional at that art form.

Dancing, she says, develops "a sensitivity to your body."

"And," she continues, "when you are sensitive to your body, you are sensitive to your soul as well—to your whole self."

That, believes Miss Jones, is why youngsters should start their dance instruction early, and continue with it even if they have no intention of making it their profession.

SHE BEGAN AS an 8-year-old at Palo Alto where she was born.

"It was through the public school system," she recalls. "An after-regular-school-hours class in modern dance was offered, and I enrolled."

Long before that, she says, she had been interested in the dance, and she was still a school girl when she determined to make it at least a part of her career.

AFTER THAT start in grade school, she took private lessons

IN COSTUME, Margot Jones and Don Smith go through one of the dramatic dance scenes that will highlight the performances of "Kismet" in the outdoor theater atop Mount Tamalpais May 14 and May 21.

CHOREOGRAPHER for the 1967 Mountain Play is only one of many activities for Margot Jones of Tiburon. She is a busy nightclub entertainer who teaches in nursery school, has acted in summer stock and is currently organizing a community theater program in Marin City.

from several teachers. In high school she joined a company, Comedia Repertory Theater in Palo Alto, which produced shows around the calendar.

"It was wonderful experience," she says.

With that began a career that has gone beyond just dancing to include singing and acting as well.

"ACTUALLY," she explains, "I don't regard dancing, singing and acting as separate arts or skills. To me they are all part of one entity—performing.

"The ability to sing may help you to act a part. Sometimes you can sing lines you cannot speak. And dancing is certainly a factor in proper movement on the stage.

"I enjoy them all—dancing, singing, acting—equally."

HER PROFESSIONAL career has included such credits as appearing in summer stock performances of plays such as "Blues for Mr. Charlie." At the Festival of Performing Arts at Foothill College, she shared honors with topflight screen and stage actor Alex Nicol. At the hungry i in San Francisco she sang on bills topped by comedians Dick Gregory and Bill Crosby.

Right now she has a number of projects going. The most immediate and one of the most important is her assignment as choreographer for the 50th annual Mountain Play to be presented May 14 and again May 21 at 2 p.m. in Cushing Memorial Amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais.

The 1967 production will be Edward Knoblock's original version of "Kismet," directed by the veteran Dan Totheroh.

MARGOT JONES had tackled her job of choreographer with all the energy, enthusiasm and demand for authenticity that marks her every endeavor.

Because of the Arabian Nights background of "Kismet," she spent weeks seeking out authentic Arabian music. Finally she found the record she wanted in a small shop in San Francisco, the work of a real Arab band.

"I didn't want anything that would give the play a false Hollywood feeling," she explains.

SHE INSISTED, too, upon the appearance of a small drum band to give the audience the feeling of live music.

The dramatic dancing which she has worked out and upon which her 15 dancers, solo performers and the drummers have been rehearsing for eight weeks under her close scrutiny has been one of the most talked-about phases of the preparations for the traditional Mount Tam event.

The Mountain Play choreography, however, is not her only current activity.

EVEN AS SHE makes frequent appearances as an entertainer in the evenings, she serves by day as a teacher at the Marin Gate Nursery School in Marin City.

There, too, she finds her stage talents helpful in working with the children, particularly the dancing. Acting experience proves valuable, too, when it's story reading time.

She is at work organizing a community theater program for Marin City. The yet unnamed company's first production, an original musical, "Profiles in Black and White," will be performed in June at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City.

SHE HAS PLANS, as well, for a children's theater for boys and girls between the ages of 4 and 6.

And she appears with her own small combo consisting of piano, bass fiddle, drum and herself as vocalist.

It's a busy life, offering plenty in variety. One night she is performing in a dimly-lit nightclub before adult audiences. The next day she is introducing 4-year-olds to the delights of dancing. And that weekend she is in the fresh air of Mount Tamalpais' majestic slopes, rehearsing older dancers for the May 14 and 21 Mountain Play spectacular.

It is, Margot Jones says, everything she expected when as a Palo Alto school child she first set her sights upon a career in the wonderful world of entertainment.

ACTIVITIES ARE suspended temporarily at Marin Gate Nursery School in Marin City while Margot Jones helps one of her small charges with a shoe-tying problem.

AS A PROFESSIONAL dancer, Margot Jones just naturally finds herself leading the Marin Gate Nursery School children in impromptu dances. She spends her mornings working with the pre-school age boys and girls.

New England In The West

Participants in the ninth annual tour of the Garden Society of Marin next Saturday will find themselves transported back into the stately beauty of old New England when they visit the grounds of Mrs. Thomas Kent in Kent Woodlands.

The residence, part of the original, historic Kent Estate, was established in 1936.

THE SPACIOUS and handsome shuttered white house was patterned after one in New Haven, Conn., in which Mrs. Kent's mother-in-law, Mrs. William Kent, had been born.

Two mantelpieces from that old New England home were acquired, shipped west and installed in the Kent Woodlands house.

The house sits among oaks, pines and cypresses far older than the structure itself.

THE SURROUNDING garden was designed originally by Geraldine Knight Scott. About 12 years ago it was further developed by the late Herman Hein.

Despite its size, there are many details of intimacy and personal sentiment. For example, the statue in the birch circle is the work of Adaline Kent Howard, daughter of Mrs. William Kent.

Many plants were originally placed in the landscape as reminders of familiar and beloved eastern gardens the Kents had known. Other trees, shrubs and flowers were received as gifts from friends. These are designated in the garden by the names of those friends, rather than by their botanical names. This is especially true of the azalea collection.

ALSO INDICATIVE of the strong interest and pride the household takes in the garden is the manner in which they "pitch in" to help the gardener with the maintenance.

Garden Society of Marin officers are especially happy to have the garden of Mrs. Kent included on their 1967 tour, since Mrs. Kent was one of the organizers and original members of the Marin County exciting concepts from Orinda pools

One reason more people are buying ORINDA pools this year is because ORINDA pools cost less to buy. Your ORINDA custom pool representative, in fact, can show you on paper that, not only is the base price lower in most cases, but when you add the options you want, the price advantage of an ORINDA pool becomes even greater.

And because it is an ORINDA pool, you get all the advantages of an ORINDA pool. The uncommon luxury of design and engineering by Orinda, and styling leadership that has made ORINDA Pools the best selling in northern California.

All of which is still just the beginning. *A giant Laars boiler is included with the 1967 Orinda Custom Royal Series providing low cost heating year long. You also have the traditionally conservative value of an ORINDA pool to enjoy. On top of all the other advantages.

Low monthly payments on ten year plan from northern California's oldest major pool builder.

Our lamp and picture selection has just increased by better than 200 subjects. We have added to our fine store display, colored slides and photographs of some of the finest lamps for both bedroom and living room, and art reproductions of the masters, including Rembrandt, Renoir, and others. Our pictures are as close to the real object as one can get. Come in and see them, or call us at 454-4870. You may benefit from our experience without it costing you anymore.

KTIM

In The Public Interest

KTIM-FM

Have you ever heard the old saying—"you're known by the company you keep?" It's true but it goes farther than that.

Rothschild once said: "Never have anything to do with an unlucky place, or an unlucky man. I have seen many clever men, very clever men, who had not shoes to their feet. I never act with them. Their advice sounds very well, but they cannot get on themselves; and if they cannot do good to themselves, how can they do good to me?"

There's a lot of wisdom in that. Choose your friends and your associates with care, and before you take advice from someone make certain he has demonstrated in his own life that he knows what he's talking about. Don't associate with chronic complainers, whiners, gloom peddlers—life is just too short to waste five minutes of it on such a person. Let him make his circle of friends with people of his own kind—then they can have a regular orgy of recrimination, criticism, and malevolence.

Keep friends with those who are cheerful and intelligent; whose conversations are calculated to enrich and inform; who like laughter and good cheer. One sour character can pull a pall of gloom over you that can last all day. He, or she, can ruin a dinner or a party. Avoid them like the plague.

The pessimists will say this is sticking your head in the sand. It is nothing of the sort. I am not ignorant of these things, but I don't have to wallow in the mud or burn myself any more than I have to contract smallpox to be aware that it exists. These things cannot possibly help me, or anyone else, so I avoid them as best I can.

If you have a constant griper working for you, particularly in the sales end, it's a good idea to have a long heart-to-heart talk with him and, if he persists after that—fire him! He cannot help you with your customers and he will infect the other people in your employ with his discontent. Even if he fails to drag others down to his level he will always be a rotten apple in the barrel and it's best he be gotten rid of. It's even best for him, if you will explain exactly why you're discharging him. He might—he just might—wake up, but the chances are he will simply add you and your company to his already long list of complaints. In this way you're also helping him in that you are helping him deepen his wallow.

There are enough cheerful, hard-working, grateful people in the world and anybody can be replaced, and anybody who thinks he cannot be replaced should be replaced immediately.

Longfellow wrote: "Some critics are like chimney-sweepers; they put out the fire below, and frighten the swallows from their nests above; they scrape a long time in the chimney, cover themselves with soot, and bring nothing away but a bag of cinders, and then sing out from the top of the house as if they had built it."

Julia Seton perhaps put it best when she wrote: "We have no more right to put our discordant states of mind into the lives of those around us and rob them of their sunshine and brightness than we have to enter their houses and steal their silverware."

Yes, it's a good idea to choose your friends and associates with care. Make certain they're the kind of people you are, or better still, the kind of people you would like to measure up to.

The View From Shalom Tower: 3,000 Years Of Biblical History

The Travel Pages

On a clear day you can see two-thirds of the inhabited area of Israel if you're standing atop Israel's tallest building, the Shalom Tower, 460 feet above street level.

Outside of the towering structures in the United States, the Shalom Tower is reported to be one of the 20 highest skyscrapers in the world — and the first of its kind in Israel.

Completed earlier this year it is already attracting about 1,000 visitors daily to its observatory.

FROM THIS point the observer can see Israel's Mediterranean coastal plain, the mountains of Galilee and of Judea, the Biblical cities of Ashkelon and Ashdod, the northern Negev Desert, the southeastern point of Mount Carmel, and, at his feet, the modern metropolis of Tel Aviv.

And, a uniqueness of this view is that it offers a panoramic focus on 3,000 years of history. For wherever the eyes are cast history has been made.

For example on a clear day, and this is frequent in Israel, you can see the land of the Philistines, the city of Safed, high in the Galilee mountains, or Mount Gilboa, where King Saul died.

TO SPOT ALL the historical sites rapidly, there is a new map room atop the Shalom Tower.

In addition to photographs, with prominent features identified, covering the full 360-degree view from the observatory, there are posted maps of the land of Israel during various periods of its history. The huge maps detail the boundaries of the land at the time of Joshua, Solomon, the First Temple, the destruction of the Second Temple, the Crusades. Other historical points are readily identified.

The Shalom Tower was four years in the making, and was a unique undertaking in Israel. It required a half-million work days, 1,750,000 cubic feet of concrete, 4,000 tons of steel reinforcement, and 1,500,000 cubic feet of electric cables and wires.

Its outer walls are covered by no less than 50 million mosaics.

TELESCOPES and binoculars may be rented at the observatory which bring closer features of the Israeli landscape 40 miles away.

The observatory is proving so popular with the Israelis, as well as with tourists that during Israel's last 36-hour Independence Day celebration 4,750 persons visited this high point in Israel's contemporary scheme of things.

Europe! 21 days, $320

The best way to see any country is to see it by car. But that can be pretty expensive. Until now. For Lufthansa German Airlines has come up with something new, different and inexpensive. 'Super Skunk' Has Begun Its Redwood Runs

The California Western Railroad has begun a weekend schedule of its famous "Super Skunk" steam train between Fort Bragg and Willits, Calif.

The train leaves Fort Bragg at 10 a.m. and will run weekends only until May 21. After that, it will make a round trip every day until Sept. 17.

"Super Skunk," California Western Railroad's train No. 45, the only regularly scheduled, standard gauge steam train in California, has a Baldwin 2-8-2 engine, a tender, and four restored Victorian coaches.

Passengers may mix rides, taking the "Super Skunk" one way and one of the diesel "Skunk" rail cars the other. It was these diesel rail cars that gave the railroad its unique nickname.

A State Park Adventure In Neighboring Sonoma County

Quite the adventurer and outdoorsman, Jack London traveled all over the place, depicting the wild things he saw in his writings.

And his memory lingers on at Jack London State Park, a 40-acre monument near the village of Glen Ellen in Sonoma County.

A STURDY structure of stone built in 1921 by London's widow, Charmian, the House of Happy Walls rests on a knoll shaded by majestic trees. Not only an adventurous man, Jack London became an acquisitive man, picking up a wide selection of memorable objects from just about everywhere. And all these the visitor finds on display in Happy Walls.

At the main entrance, you pass through a doorway shaped like an oversized horseshoe and are reminded of London's friend Bob Fitzsimmons, the Australian blacksmith who designed it, the boxer who won the world's heavyweight championship in 1897.

To London, physical fitness ranked foremost in man's style of life. Within Happy Walls, look closely at the boxing gloves he used in his sparring matches with Fitzsimmons. Notice the foils and masks? They reflect his interest in fencing.

AS YOU RUN into the library, off the former living room, browse around this replica of London's workroom where he wrote during the building of Wolf House and you'll receive firsthand information about his writings. For here in the library lie many of London's original manuscripts, all written in longhand. Mrs. London typed up copies to be sent to publishers and editors.

Don't be frightened by the snarling Husky peering out of the enlarged photograph in the former library. Brown Wolf was London's best friend, as far as dogs go.

See that ship's bell on the wall below the portrait? It was taken from the Snark, the boat carrying worldly London on his voyages to the South Seas. London didn't come home empty-handed either. Focus your eyes on the ceilings of Happy Walls. Kava bowls went into making many of those chandeliers.

WOULD YOU believe the feasting garb of a cannibal? It's here too. So are Melanesian weapons designed for homicide and a costume made of varicolored bird skins.

Outside again, walk about a quarter of a mile from the House of Happy Walls to reach the eerie ruins of Wolf House, which was destroyed by fire in 1913. London never had a chance to move into his new home, the blaze occurring on the very night he planned to relocate.

Don't miss London's grave, now that you're standing near Wolf House, Just a short trek up, on another knoll with oak trees, a giant, red lava rock marks the spot.

The Best Place to go if you're going someplace!

More exciting than ever during Canada's 100th birthday

British Columbia '67

Victoria's Inner Harbour and the Provincial Parliament Buildings.

You'll find festive spirit to match the glorious scenery as British Columbia celebrates Canada's Centennial year. There's a stirring military tattoo at major centres during May and June. The Centennial Naval Assembly in Vancouver and Victoria harbours, July 14-15. North America's largest air show ever at Abbotsford in the Fraser Valley, August 11-13. World Hydroplane Races at Kelowna on Lake Okanagan and dozens of other highlights, all glitter, color, pageantry.

But events aren't the only attractions. Places are fascinating, too. Barkerville, for instance, in the Old West country of the Cariboo. A riotous Gold Rush town in the 1860s, it's been fully restored, with daily stage coach rides, a music hall show and buildings brimming with old-time paraphernalia. You can also turn back the clock at Fort Steele in the Kootenays and Fort Langley in the Fraser Valley.

If big damsites interest you, British Columbia is a treasure trove. Right now you can see work in progress on the Peace and Columbia River systems — 4 mighty dams, comprising the world's largest hydroelectric development.

Cities, too, are exciting in British Columbia. Vancouver boasts one of the world's loveliest settings and its surging skyline reflects an upswing in the tempo and variety of holiday appeals. Top-line night club shows, continental cuisine, a wide range of gracious accommodation are part of the scene. Victoria, famed for Old English charm and splendid gardens, has a light and lively side, too. Centennial Square is one indication of the new look displayed by our stately capital city.

Magnificent highways carry you to every region in the province, through towering mountain reaches, peaceful orchard valleys and rolling cattle country. Exhilarating salt-air ferry cruises extend your travel choice, linking Vancouver Island with the southern mainland and the far north. From coast to mountain crest, British Columbia beckons. Make 1967 your year for discovery.

Scandal At The Tate

BRAVE DAY, HIDEOUS NIGHT by Sir John Rothenstein, Holt, Rinehart & Winston, 376 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Laura Devendorf.

"Brave Day, Hideous Night" is no ordinary autobiography. While director of London's Tate Gallery its author, Sir John Rothenstein, became the central figure in the century's biggest art scandal.

As a writer, Sir John sweeps the reader through the incredible series of events before and during the "Tate affair" with a style that is as compelling as it is literary, and in so doing, reveals himself as a cerebral, sensitive man totally lacking in guile. The cruel machinations of arts upper echelon hold a gripping fascination but Sir John balances his tale with candid personal glimpses of family, friends and luminaries from Churchill to Picasso.

The story, the second half of his autobiography the first of which was published in 1965, begins in 1938 with Sir John's call to the Tate as director. His enthusiasm for the challenge was matched only by the shambling chaos he encountered.

"A shuffling, unpressed staff" whistled and smoked througout the galleries which were hung with the Tate's most deplorable acquisitions. In the basement a stack of paintings was so thoroughly endowed with grime and disinterest that only years of gradual restoration finally disclosed the magnificent collection of Turners that lay beneath. Administratively, he found uncashed checks of years' standing, a filing system in which correspondence was often thrown behind the furniture and even reams of obscene verses dictated by a high staff member on gallery stationery.

Reviews Of New Reading

From this unlikely foundation and with virtually no funds, Sir John began to build the Tate's collection and reputation into today's counterpart of New York's Museum of Modern Art. So engaged, his recollections of meeting with now-famous artists and statesmen, the hardships during the war years and the final rebuilding of the Tate from a bombed-out ruin into a vigorous art institution, all reveal a man of honesty, dedication and warmth.

It is then all the more shattering to find him embroiled in a sudden scandal based solely on the inventions of a single ambitious malfeasant, LeRoux Smith LeRoux — a situation against which Sir John was even denied the right to defend himself.

It is a chilling tale involving names as large as painter Graham Sutherland, art historian Douglas Cooper and the former lord chancellor of England, Lord Jowitt. But everyone, even friends, became involved, often becoming aggressive gossip-mongers themselves.

That subsequent events revealed LeRoux's criminality is of little consequence. What is impressive is Sir John himself. Candid as he is about the facts and names involved in this sordid attempt to destroy him professionally and personally and even though 12 years later still no attempt has been made to publicly clear his name, he expresses no bitterness.

Instead, this very lack of malice accentuates his story's underlying warning that even at the most educated levels a destructive emotional jungle of envy, fear, insecurity and egomania does exist. And it would be far simpler to keep it in check than to count on the fortitude Sir John's account of the "Tate affair" displays. His endowment of courage is almost superhuman.

Pioneer Editors, And Lusty Press

PRINT IN A WILD LAND by John Myers Myers, Doubleday, 257 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

When the West was settled, the printing press rode with the first town builders—and sometimes ahead of them. And the men who brought it were a contentious, untrammeled lot of individualists who fit their new environment like a six-gun in a well-worn holster.

Few of these pioneer editors had advanced educations by today's standards; but many of them were well-read, could translate Latin, and were among the best educated men on the frontier by the classical standards of their time. The journals they printed may have had few readers, but their influence was great wherever it reached.

Each was a rabid partisan of whatever boomtown or frontier outpost he chose to set up shop. Any huddle of hovels on the lone prairie or in a gold rush gulch was a future "queen city" to him. He sang its praises fulsomely — and as abundantly damned its rivals.

Theirs was the free press with a vengeance. Neither threat of libel suit nor fear of personal violence stayed their composing sticks. Typical was the description of Marysville, Kan., published in 1860 by the Kansas Chief in rival White Cloud:

"Marysville is a city of a dozen or 20 log huts, principally used as whiskey shops, scattered about with as much regularity as buffalo chips on the plains."

Rival editors got the same kind of treatment, as when the California Star in San Francisco in gold rush days had this to say of the Monterey Californian:

"We have received two late numbers of the Californian, a dim, dirty little paper printed at Monterey, on the worn out material of one of the old California war presses. It is published and edited by Walter Colton and Robert Semple, the one a lying sycophant and the other an overgrown lick-spittle."

This was, indeed, a lusty press. And John Myers Myers is probably the ideal writer to chronicle it. Like the frontier editors of whom he writes, he cares little for cant or sacred cows. And the West is in his bones and his pen.

"Print in a Wild Land" is essentially a compilation of anecdotes. It is nevertheless a fine piece of history, more illuminative of the West that was than many a learned thesis. And it is joyful reading.

Second Play By A Poetic Irish Writer

THE LOVES OF CASS McGUIRE by Brian Friel, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 139 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

Brien Friel's first play, "Philadelphia, Here I Come," introduced yet another important Irish poet-playwright to American audiences. He followed his initial success with the poignant treatment of old age, presented on Broadway last year.

Stripped down to the one dimension of print on a page, the play still has much warmth and motion.

The title player, Cass, is an old girl in her 70s coming home to Ireland. She is by no means ready to accept being shunted off to a "home." Friel handles Cass and the other elderly, exiled waifs with humor, and a lyric tenderness commonly re-

A Rare Blend Of Mystery, Suspense

THE SABRE SQUADRON by Simon Raven, Harper & Row, 239 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

To read the first page of Simon Raven's new novel is to read it all. For here is a rare mixture of mystery and suspense, involving people that are altogether credible.

A Cambridge student goes to Germany just after the war to decipher the papers left by a great mathematician. He soon stumbles onto a discovery of terrifying military implications and he dare not confide in anyone. Kindly suggestions that he leave Germany give way to ludicrous pressures. Or is he suffering from delusions?

At this point the men of the colorful 10th Sabre Squadron from England swagger onto the scene. Are these the god-sent friends they seem to be? Is it just chance they are stationed in the same town?

As the story develops, the heavy post-war atmosphere seems to encircle the reader as it does the hero. One can sense the invisible trap closing. And the hero is superbly human and vulnerable . . . callow, given to showing off, yet uneasily determined to do the honorable thing.

As a last hope he must ask his buddies in the squadron to break their own security and smuggle him out. The outcome of this maneuver is in doubt to the very last, and provides a telling comment on modern morality.

Raven's small-scale work compares favorably with that of Graham Greene and Anthony Powell. In fact, it is so good that, unreasonably, one can't help wishing it had just that little bit more, that extra clarity that would put it in the very frontranks. But never mind the quibbling. Just settle back and enjoy a truly high calibre entertainment!

An Admiring Portrayal Of A President

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, the Man As I Knew Him, by Nicholas Roosevelt, Dodd, Mead and Co., 189 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Nicholas Roosevelt grew up in a Long Island home neighboring that of his father's cousin, Theodore. He played as a child with the children of the man who was to become President. As a youth and young man, he was closely associated with Theodore Roosevelt's political and governmental activities.

"TR" was—and is—Nicholas Roosevelt's hero. The hero worship theme runs throughout "Theodore Roosevelt, the Man As I Knew Him." (Also evident is the clan loyalty of the Roosevelts, quite similar to that of the Kennedys.)

This is a warm portrayal of an interesting personality. Admirers of "TR" should enjoy it thoroughly. Non-admirers will doubtless find it much too non-objective.

Great Depression— Subject For Levity?

By DON KEOWN

In another 10 years will writers be producing "lighthearted" resumes of the era of World War II, Nazi genocide and postwar McCarthyism? And then, in yet another two decades, will our present-day bloodletting in Vietnam and our racial turmoil be regarded as fit subjects for levity?

Those questions came to mind as we read Robert Bendiner's "Just Around the Corner," dealing wittily and somewhat airily with the 1930s.

This "highly selective history" is unquestionably amusing with its humor and the nostalgic memories it calls forth.

But one's enjoyment of the book and the recollections it stimulates are tempered by nagging doubts as to whether the depression, with all its suffering and indignities, the rise of totalitarianism, to prove so costly in human lives, and the stirrings of the anti-subversive mania that was to preoccupy America in the years ahead, are proper subjects for a tongue-in-cheek treatment.

True, Bendiner's humor is often hardened with irony. But what is missing is anger at the avarice and stupidity that caused the economic debacle and at the hatreds and ignorance upon which the socio-political filth of fascism fed. There is an uneasy feeling that once again man is taking too lightly the kind of past transgressions he is quite capable of repeating.

Bendiner's book is not offered as a comprehensive, cohesive history of an era. It is labeled quite honestly as his own highly personalized impressions of the time. He was an easterner, a journalist who served as managing editor of The Nation, and so the book is also highly regionalized.

For instance, he devotes much space to the impact of PWA theater upon the country. In our small Kansas town we were scarcely aware of its existence. Our "live" theater came, not from the federal government, but from traveling tent and medicine shows. And the Dust Bowl, which for us rivaled the depression and darkening war clouds as causes for alarm and distress, draws only scant attention from Bendiner.

But as a restricted view of a significant decade, it is altogether enjoyable, once you overcome that guilt feeling that comes from deriving pleasure from a subject of gloom and peril.

Bendiner's text and the accompanying cartoons, photographs and clippings, carry you back those 30 odd years. You find yourself remembering just how inept a President Herbert Hoover really was, how the surprising emergence of Franklin Delano Roosevelt brought a fresh wave of hope, how beloved FDR was among the masses and how despised and reviled he was among those he called "the economic royalists." In retrospect, one sees Alfred Landon as a far better presidential candidate than he seemed at the time when he was hopelessly outmatched against the glamorous and gifted Roosevelt.

One recalls Huey Long and Father Coughlin with their tyrades, the practice aggressions of Hitler, Mussolini and the Japanese, the cynical tactical flip-flops of Josef Stalin and the desperate efforts of American Communists to keep in step with Moscow, the world fairs in Chicago and New York, miniature golf, nickel punchboards, the Liberty League, isolationism, Munich, the NRA and the court that killed it, the hysteria produced by Orson Welles' invasion from Mars broadcast and much more.

Figures such as Dr. Francis Townsend, Harry Hopkins, Heywood Broun, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Henry Ford, W. C. Fields, Father Divine, Fiorello LaGuardia, Harold Ickes, Dorothy Thompson, John L. Lewis, the Dionne Quintuplets, John Dillinger, Samuel Insull, Warden Lewis Lawes, William Lemke, Frank Knox, Charles Curtis, Fred Allen, Al Smith, Dr. John R. Brinkley, Arthur Brisbane and many more emerge from the past.

"It was the worst of times but it was also, in some measure, the best of times . . .," says the jacket blurb.

Despite Bendiner's usually successful efforts to make his overview entertaining, the thoughtful reader will wind up convinced that "the worst" it definitely was. As for "the best," the charms of 15 cents a pound beefsteak dim when one is reminded just how many Americans were standing in breadlines without a dime.

PITY THE gardener or home handyman who tackles a project with tools that are dull. He is doomed to failure and frustration.

Nor is his trouble always alleviated when he sallies forth and buys himself a sharpening device of some kind. Quite often those gimcracks fail to live up to their manufacturer's promise, and after one or two unsuccessful attempts with them, they are eventually set aside to gather dust and rust on a garage shelf.

Quite often, however, the fault lies not with the sharpener, but in the manner in which you use it. Harry Walton is the man to point out your mistakes.

His name is a familiar one to do-it-yourselfers because of his position as home workshop editor of Popular Science magazine. Frequently his writing for that publication has dealt with the use and care of sharpening tools.

Now he has put that information together to form a book, "Home and Workshop Guide to Sharpening." It is the newest volume in a series of Popular Science Skill Books.

Proper technique with sharpeners, Walton points out, can save you time and money. So with the help of photographs and drawings, he proceeds to explain the right way to use devices from the simplest hand stones to the most elaborate power grinders. He even tells you how to improvise your own power grinder. He offers safety and maintenance advice. And he discusses many other aspects of keeping a sharp point or keen edge on your equipment.

It wouldn't seem likely that the simple subject of tool sharpening would provide sufficient material for a book. But coming from Walton, it does. And with little, if any, padding.

A FORMER judge and an attorney in the state of Oklahoma, John O. Maberry is the author of the softcover booklet "Take Your Traffic Ticket to Court — and Win!," published by Brandon House of North Hollywood.

It advises the motorist of what to do — after he's heard the siren. How to conduct himself with the officer and in the courts, so as to insure his legal rights.

It is hard to quarrel with that objective, or with Maberry's contention that Vehicle Code legislation is in need of modernization.

On the other hand, any thoughtful observer of traffic on our streets and highways will be convinced that far fewer — not more — tickets are issued than are deserved. And that what is really needed is some means of obtaining greater compliance with the requirements for safe and sane driving, instead of the encouragement of those who flaunt the laws and look for loopholes to escape the consequences.

Yet if you simply can't muster the maturity to drive responsibly, or if you really are the victim of a wrongful arrest, your best course is spelled out here simply and concisely.

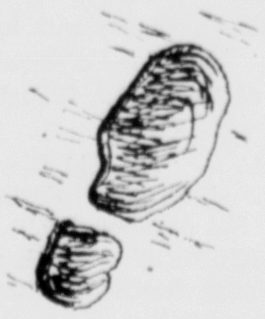
Sleuths & Suspense

THE WARLOCK by Wilson Tucker, Doubleday, 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.



Espionage novel fans are bound to enjoy this one.

Tucker introduces a new secret agent, Polish-born Anson Bolda, son of a peasant woman rumored to be a witch. Bolda's work as an American military intelligence agent takes him first back to his native Poland — a mission that ends disastrously in a red prison. Ransomed, he returns to the United States for further intrigue and danger, with a surprise ending in St. Louis.

Tucker's plot is an imaginative one, yet believable enough. Bolda is a strong and interesting character, who, we hope, will return in future novels. And the story is rich in the kind of gadgetry that is so dear to the confirmed spy thriller buff.

STEREOPHONIC SOUND IN ALL OF ITS FURIOUS SPLENDOR! There was lightning in the sky as our jet approached the Omaha airport. We landed in mild rain and strong gusts of wind at 9:30 P.M. During the next early morning hours a couple from Marin, my wife and I, were entertained by a striking display of lightning and the powerful sound of thunder. Lightning streaked across the distant sky then, sometimes as much as a minute later, the low rumbling sound of thunder would arrive. Soon after, there would be a bright flash nearby and almost instantly the tremendously loud snap and crackle of the close thunder. This panorama of sight and sound came from all directions. We were surrounded with nature's largest stage. Location, timing, intensity, all were unpredictable. Sometimes flashes and thunder came from more than one direction simultaneously. I was wishing that I had my sound level meter so that I could measure the ear splitting intensities of the thunder.

This was truly stereophonic sound in all of its magnificent and awesome depth. For anyone that has never been in the heart of a Midwestern storm, the experience would be long remembered.

With a component home music system we don't strive to recreate the sound of thunder with its extremely low bass rumble and its sharp crackling treble and reproduce it at its natural ear-shattering levels. But we do strive to furnish a music system that is capable of reproducing this extremely large range of tones. We also expect the system to have a dynamic range capable of very loud volumes without distortion. Although we may recommend amplifiers with 30 or 40 watts of power, this does not mean that this much power would be used in a home. At average listening levels only 1 to 5 watts would be used, however, the instantaneous peak power may reach as high as 10 times the listening level.

Be Wise! Learn the important facts before you purchase your home music system. There are many varieties of equipment. Some will allow you the flexibility of adding to the system in building block fashion. The important thing is the final result — GOOD SOUND.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

HANDEL: Seven Concerti Grossi Opus 3; TELEMANN: Concerto for Oboe, Strings and Harpsichord — Collegium Musicum of Paris/Roland Douatte; Cologne Chamber Orchestra/ Helmut Muller-Bruhl — Monitor MCS 2100/1:

Let me say first that this two-disc album is the most exciting music of the Baroque period I have auditioned for many months.

M. Douatte already has a reputation for making music of this period come alive, but here he outdoes himself. These concerti have such an infectious, muscular, joyous and dynamic mood about them that one wants to shout hallelujah. And the stereophonics are excellent.

Add to that the Telemann encore, a graceful and typical concerto, plus the bargain price of Monitor's Collectors' Series and you have an item that shouldn't be passed up!

SCHUBERT: Piano Quintet in A Opus 114 "The Trout"; Quartettsatz in C Minor—Vlado Perlemuter, piano members of the Pascal String Quartet—Monitor MCS 2106:

This is not the best Trout in the catalog, but it is quite good, well recorded, and bargain-priced.

BACH: Three Sonatas for Cello and Harpsichord—Edmund Kurtz/Frank Pelleg — Monitor MCS 2108:

There are nine other versions of these popular chamber works of Johann Sebastian's, most of them employing the cello but some using instead the viola for which the music was originally written. (Actually it was written for viola da gamba.) Of the cello versions, this one does not stand up to Janigro's or to Casals' single sonata on Columbia.

ENCORE—The Great Rostropovich Plays His Favorite Cello Encores — Monitor MCS 2119:

If a title of world's greatest cellist was being awarded, this Soviet performer probably would certainly give Pablo Casals some competition.

Here is a very sensibly arranged catch-all of short pieces featuring Rostropovich, rechanneled quite successfully for stereo. Two of the works, both by Glazounov, include full orchestra, while the other seven are solo or with piano accompaniment. A Handel aria and an adagio from Prokofieff's "Cinderella" ballet are especially beautiful.

Music of Borodin, Chopin, Schumann and Richard Strauss is also heard on this worthwhile collection.

BRAHMS: Two Sonatas for Cello and Piano—Paul Olefsky, cello / Walter Hautzig, piano — Monitor MCS 2116:

Competition for repertoire among the new group of bargain classical labels is becoming noticeable.

For example, Crossroads released just recently a very fine stereodisc of the Brahms Cello/ Piano Sonatas in E and F, and here is the same thing from Monitor. The performance and the sound are also very fine.

In fact Monitor has a slight edge because of the high hiss level which seems to affect some Crossroads releases. Of course for the regular price one can have these pleasant sonatas with Janos Starker on Mercury, but if money is the question (and for whom is it not?) this economy label is the one to buy.

POET'S CORNER

NEW TIBURON: 1970

Once upon a waterfront
Seagulls swooped and swayed,
Seaweed fringed the shoreline—
That was yesterday.

Once upon an expert
Knew a better way,
Planned a row of buildings—
Took my road away.

Now I have a new road
Far from peeping shore;
In between the tourists
Picnic evermore.

I will go and join them
Have a little lark;
Drive around an hour—
No place left to park.

Once upon a waterfront
Driving by the sea,
Was that bygone expert
Thinking thoughts of me?

Am I but a land use?
Or a base for tax?
I am now a person
Needing to relax.

Ring around the rosey
Trapped inside my car,
Once upon a seashore
I wonder how you are.

THE OLEANDER is a colorful California shrub that does best in the hotter areas, but can be grown in Marin, particularly in the less fog-prone sectors. It gives blooms in many colors from white to rose. (Photo courtesy of the California Assn. of Nurserymen)

There's More To Privets Than Just Fine Hedges

Garden Page

Privets make such fine hedges that most people think of them only in this line.

It seems a same, for among the privets are many which not only should be planted for hedging, but for ornamental value too.

WE THINK first of the handsome Wax Leafed Privet, a shrub of distinction.

Deep glossy-green leaves, larger than those of the traditional hedging privet, are a fine backdrop for the garden. It stands shearing well and will make an ideal hedge, but so, too, it makes a fine specimen shrub against a wall, an attractive tub plant and, if you practice the art of topiary, an extraordinary subject for clipping into any shape.

The California Association of Nurserymen reports that member nurserymen often have Wax Leafed Privet in stock sheared to various intriguing shapes. For instance you can buy a Wax Leafed Privet shaped like a globe, or poodled in a style that any well-bred poodle would admire.

YOU'LL ALSO find it clipped to pyramid shape and espaliered; and you'll even find it trained into the shape of a small patio tree.

Japanese Privet is another that no one seems to think of except as a hedge. Its highly polished leaves make an excellent large shrub or small tree in the garden and its spring-summer flower clusters are worth consideration in themselves — nothing spectacular but pleasantly fragrant and quite showy. You miss out on these flowers when you shear the Japanese Privet or any of its family.

Nurserymen often offer this one as a started patio tree.

JUST BRIEFLY, here are other privets worth your attention:

There's the California Golden Privet, a honey-colored, glossy leafed shrub that's good for hedging or tubbing as a specimen, formal or otherwise. And there's the Roundleaf Japanese Privet, a handsome hedge plant with two-inch, round leaves. It does better in part shade than with too much sun. And there's the hybrid "Suwannee River" privet, very compact, and well worth your attention.

Botanical note: Wax Leafed Privet is listed by nurserymen as Ligustrum texanum; Japanese Privet is Ligustrum japonicum; California Golden Privet is Ligustrum ovalifolium "Aureum"; Roundleaf Privet is Ligustrum japonicum rotundifolium.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

The Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- May is a good month to start warm weather annuals such as zinnia, salvia, celosia and others if you haven't set them out already.
- Mow lawns frequently. Part of the secret of a beautiful lawn is not to let it overgrow between mowings.
- Feed azaleas and camellias with an acid plant food this month. Water them frequently during warm weather.
- Plant roses from containers. You'll find many favorite varieties in full bloom at nurseries in cans now.
- Mulch around moisture-loving plants such as fuchsia, azalea, hydrangea, hibiscus, camellia and others. Use a good heavy layer of peat moss.
- Keep putting out the bait for snails and slugs. The rains have produced a bumper crop this year.
- Stake plants that have been beaten down by the spring showers, to give them support until they can upright themselves.

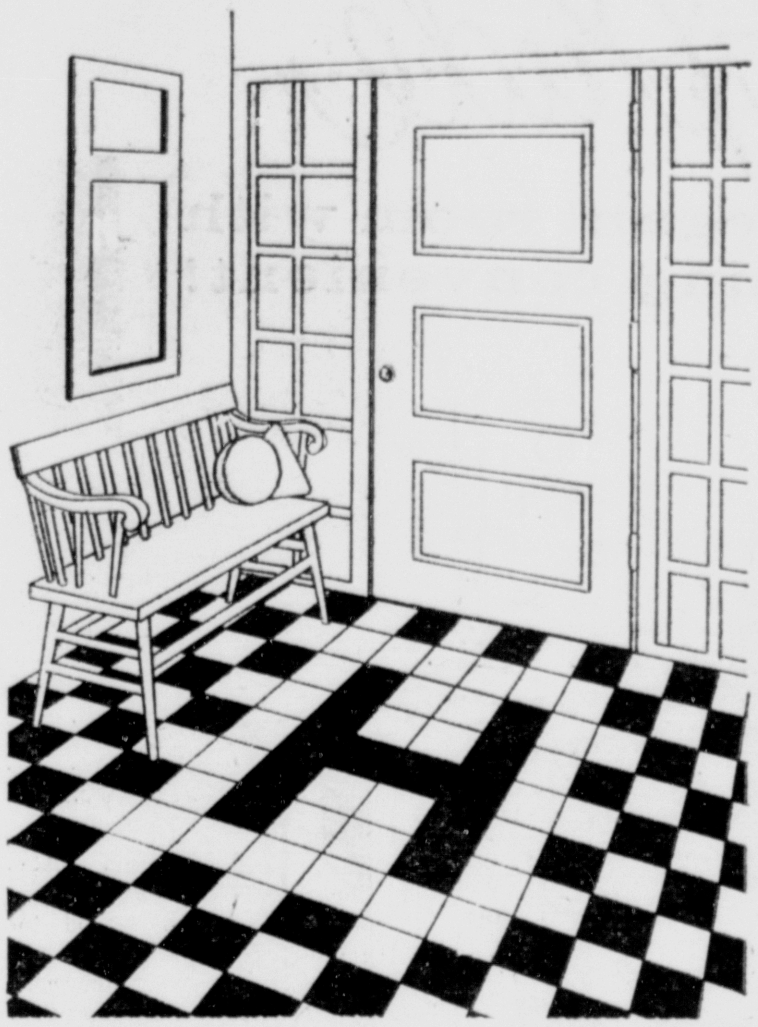
Handyman's Page



VINYL TILE squares have been used here to imprint the initial of the family name just inside the entrance door of this home, lending a personalized touch to the floor. It's an easy job for the home handyman.

BRIGHT IDEAS

You Can Personalize A Floor

By JOE JONES

We all know about monogrammed shirts, ties, silver, sheets, pillowcases, glasses, belt buckles and what have you. So why not a monogrammed floor?

It's a simple project when you work with vinyl tile squares.

The squares are inexpensive. And, most important, they are easy to lay. So they are a natural for personalizing your floor.

You will probably want to do this in the foyer, the family or recreation room, a hallway or the bedroom.

The blocks come in sizes that lend themselves beautifully to "block" letter adaptation. The capital "H" shown at left is a good example, and you had best stick to this type of letter.

Make a floor plan before you begin. Plot your design on graph paper, or any piece of square-ruled paper. You have all sorts of new colors, textures and patterns to choose from.

Get going. Your whole floor is your stage.

At the same time you are giving the room a new floor, you are also giving it a distinctive touch that is all your own.
